Pope John's Death Expected Any Time

BULLETIN

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII resisted death again today, regaining his senses a second time after sinking into unconsciousness.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII's sturdy heart fought an astonishing duel with death today, but his doctor said he could succumb at any moment and added, "I doubt if he can live until this evening."

The Vatican radio quoted doctors as saying:

"Short of a miracle, he could be expected to die at any moment."

The broadcast implored Roman Catholics of the world to pray for the pontiff, 81.

The supreme spiritual ruler of the world's half-billion Catholics was described as serene in his moments of consciousness early in the day—ready for the death which his durable heart held off through two grave crises within 24 hours.

The pontiff lapsed into a coma late Friday night, then came out of it long enough to bless the grieving prelates and close relatives at his bedside and even to talk with some of those around him, recognizing them individually.

Then the Pope slipped back into coma. Hemorrhages from a stomach tumor had weakened him, and then peritonitis, inflammation of the abdomen, struck him. Doctors said brief rallies were not unusual in such cases.

A monsignor, the Rt. Rev. Oddone Tacoli, who saw the pontiff while he was conscious early in the day, said he told him, "Holy Father, you seem revived."

He said the Pope replied, "I have been able to follow my death step by step. Now I am going sweetly toward the end."

Few had expected the Pope would live into the new day. Minute by minute, then hour by hour, the bulletins from the Vatican radio and press office had prepared the waiting Roman Catholic world for the news of his death.

Ferdinando Cardinal Cento, who recited prayers for the dying at the pontiff's bedside Friday, said he heard Pope John murmer then, "I wish to be taken away, so I can be with Christ."

The pontiff's heart amazed his doctors, but one of them, Piero Mazzoni, said "I doubt if he can live until this evening."

The Pope was breathing regularly, but slowly and with difficulty. His temperature rose to 100.4 degrees, the Vatican said. But his stout heart still beat regularly.

Pope John passed the night on the threshold of death with his brothers and a sister at his bedside.

The Vatican radio told of the Pope's confrontation with death: "He said more than once, 'We are suffering but suffering with love.' "

Many times during his early morning consciousness, the radio said, the Pope "repeated the invocation, 'Jesus, Jesus.' "

The Vatican radio repeatedly reported, as did prelates coming from the Pope's apartment, that he was serene and calm in the throes of death.

He was suffering pain.

Raimondo Manzini, director of the Vatican newspaper l'Osservatore Romano, came from the papal apartment at 11 a.m. (5 a.m. EST) and said the Pope was "still serene."

"He is breathing regularly, like a clock," Manzini said. "He is very pale under the oxygen mask

A Lisbon man died Friday at 6:50 p.m. at Salem City Hospital with injuries suffered in a car crash about five hours earlier on Route 154 a mile and six-tenths east of Rogers.

The victim was George William Taylor, 322 N. Market St., an apprentice baker. He was 21.

A companion in the car also was hospitalized. This was one of six accidents investigated Friday by the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

An East Palestine man was hospitalized as the result of one of the crashes.

Officers said Mr. Taylor, the driver, was headed west on Route 154. He went off the right side of the highway after rounding a curve and then lost control. The car went left of center, struck an embankment and rolled over.

The mishap was timed at 2:45 p.m. Mr. Taylor suffered a fractured skull. He never regained consciousness.

The passenger, Harold Moore, 16, of 335 N. Market St., Lisbon, was admitted to Salem City Hospital with lacerations of the scalp and right arm.

Mr. Taylor's death marks the ninth traffic fatality in Columbiana County this year compared with 17 for the same period in 1962, ending a lull since April 27.

Mr. Taylor was born July 1, 1941, in Wilmington, to Harold Taylor and Nellie Pierce Taylor.

Integration Leader Asks New Action

400 Negroes Are Arrested In Wake Of Jackson March

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—An integration leader called for renewed demonstrations in Jackson today after more than 400 marching Negroes—many of them teen-agers—were arrested and taken to temporary detention centers.

Mayor Allen Thompson again rejected a Negro request for a biracial meeting. Conditions were too tense, he said.

Medgar Evers, state field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, urged continuance of the civil disobedience campaign.

Evers, who appeared at a mass night rally, later declined to say what form weekend protests would take.

It took police more than five hours to process prisoners Friday after the first major demonstration in the Negroes' civil rights struggle here.

The final arrest figure: 327 juveniles, 94 adults. The group, ranging in years from 12 to 29, was charged with parading without a permit.

Hours later, police began releasing those under 18 in their parents' custody.

Roy T. Wilkins of New York, executive secretary of the NAACP arrived for a speech soon after the arrests were made.

He complained about the "Nazi-type tactics" used by police and the temporary detention centers—hog wire stretched around exhibition halls on the state fair grounds.

"This is pure nazism and Hitlerism," Wilkins said. "The only thing missing is the ovens."

Nearly 500 Negroes had gathered Friday in the Farish Street Baptist Church, about six blocks from the heart of Jackson.

Willie Ludden, 26, of Atlanta, Ga., an executive of the NAACP, led the first wave out of the church.

The Negroes ignored police orders to disperse and continued to march toward a double file of policemen.

Ludden was clubbed to the ground when he jabbed an arresting officer in an attempt to break him away from him.

About 60 Negroes were arrested at Brinkley High School while marching to join those at the church.

Congress Due 2-Bill Package

Kennedy Eyes Legislation To Speed Desegregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration is expected to ask Congress next week for new legislation to speed desegregation of schools and public accommodations.

The two-bill package, coupled with voluntary removal of racial barriers by some southern businessmen, is designed to ease the nation's integration crisis.

Prime consideration, it was learned, is being given to a public accommodations bill that would prohibit racial discrimination by businesses involved in interstate commerce.

The hope is that such a measure may alleviate tensions arising from sit-in demonstrations at department store lunch counters. Small restaurants which do not receive food or goods from other states presumably would not be affected. However, virtually all do.

The school legislation reported under consideration would be designed to implement the 1955 Supreme Court order that public schools be desegregated with "all deliberate speed."

The bill would leave the door open for local officials to set up specific timetables to effect desegregation under the guidance of federal authorities.

Where this is not done, federal authorities would be empowered to set a timetable on their own, subject to court review. Should local officials refuse to meet it they would face federal prosecution.

Congressional sources said Friday Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy will present the new legislation Thursday in a public hearing before the House Judiciary Committee.

But administration sources said such timing is not definite and it is understood no decision has been made on whether the school and public accommodations proposals should be presented to Congress by the attorney general or in a special presidential message.

Rep. Walter Taken At 69 By Leukemia

Democrat Had Been Elected To 16th Consecutive Term

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Francis E. Walter, 69, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, died Friday after serving in the House longer than any Pennsylvania Democrat.

Walter, who was elected to a 16th consecutive term last Nov. 6, had been confined to Georgetown University Hospital for several weeks. His death was attributed to leukemia, cancer of the blood.

President Kennedy said in a statement:

"I am saddened to hear of the death of Congressman Francis E. Walter. When I saw him on my recent visit to the hospital he was facing the future with the same faith and courage he had shown throughout his life. He will be greatly missed in the House of Representatives and all his friends mourn his passing."

Jack Yohe, an aide to the congressman, said Walter had been in a coma most of Friday. His physician, Dr. Darrell C. Crain, announced on May 22 that tests showed Walter was suffering from leukemia.

Walter's death and the death earlier this year of Rep. Clyde Doyle, D-Calif., puts Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-La., in line to become chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee.

The House lineup now becomes 276 Democrats and 177 Republicans, with two vacancies.

Walter, whose home was in Easton in eastern Pennsylvania, was co-author of the controversial McCarran-Walter immigration act. He ranked eighth in seniority in the House and second on the Judiciary Committee. He was reelected this year as Democratic Caucus chairman and was chairman also of the Democratic Patronage Committee in the House.

Jethro Man Surrenders In Stabbing

A 33-year-old Jethro man is being held in City Jail today on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon after allegedly stabbing a neighbor woman in the hand early this morning.

Jessie Floyd Kent, 730 Leonard St., surrendered at the police station at 3:33 a. m., about 50 minutes after police were called to the home of Emma Heft, 38, of 716 Leonard St.

Kent probably will be arraigned Monday morning in Municipal Court on the charge, Lt. W. E. McDaniel said. Kent refused to make a statement, Lt. McDaniel said.

Mrs. Heft was treated at City Hospital at 3 a. m. for multiple stab wounds of the right hand and fingers and then returned to City Hall by police for questioning.

Police received a call at 2:42 a. m. from Mrs. Iva Baker, 718 Leonard St., mother of Mrs. Heft, who said Kent had stabbed her daughter.

When Lt. McDaniel and Patrolman R. J. Brookes, Howard E. Frontz and Paul A. Burson Jr. arrived, they found Mrs. Heft and her mother on the steps of the mother's home.

The two women told officers Kent had fled west across the creek and Patrolmen Brookes and Frontz started a search for him while Lt. McDaniel and Officer Burson took Mrs. Heft to the hospital for treatment.

Officers Brookes and Frontz were unable to locate Kent in the area but he walked into City Hall at 3:33 a. m. to surrender, police said.

Ohio Traffic Fatality List Mounts To 14

Result Of Accidents Near Homes; Four Die In One Wreck

By The Associated Press

Holiday travel over Ohio's highways found motorists up to the challenge, but accidents stemming from casual transportation right around home resulted in a rash of traffic deaths Friday.

In black-and - white contrast to the Memorial Day and holiday eve record of no reported deaths, Friday — supposed lull between start and finish of the long holiday weekend—produced a rash of fatalities.

There were 14 known dead in traffic. Four came in one accident, a train-car crash in Springfield.

If the Friday pace continued, official predictions of 27 vehicle deaths for the 102-hour period could be unhappily fulfilled by midnight Sunday when the count ends.

Every traffic victim lost his life in his own county, most of them within a few blocks of home.

The toll:

Mt. McKinley East Buttress Scaled By Six

TALKEETNA, Alaska (AP)—The mile-high, almost vertical east buttress of North America's highest mountain has been conquered for the first time by six mountain guides.

The men continued upward and reached the summit of Mt. McKinley May 25. Their ascent was reported Friday by Mary Carey, Talkeetna correspondent for the Fairbanks News-Miner.

The climbers said none of them suffered frostbite while scaling the 20,300-foot peak but one had a touch of heat exhaustion.

Warren Blesser, 24, Middlebury, Conn., suffered heat exhaustion while returning to base camp on Ruth Glacier. Blesser, Pete Lev, of Boulder, Colo., and Fullerton, Calif., and Fred Wright, Burbank, Calif., remained at the camp waiting for clearing weather so a bush pilot could fly them out.

The pilot, Don Sheldon, Fairbanks, flew the other three climbers here Wednesday.

Ballot Place Granted Lami

Weirton Council Nominee's Cleared

CHARLESTON — The State Supreme Court ruled Friday it cannot consider whether Clifford A. Lami is eligible as a city council candidate before next Tuesday's Weirton city election.

As a result, Lami's name will be on the ballot.

He will be one of two candidates from the 1st Ward because Supreme Court action earlier in the week stayed execution of a circuit judge's order removing him.

If the case follows normal channels, it will come up for arguments and a decision during the court's September term.

Present when the case came up for argument were attorneys for Lami, one of two First Ward nominees for council, and for Norman D. Orwasky, who ran third as a candidate in the May 7 primary and failed to win nomination.

But City Clerk Paul Chuma, defendant in the proceeding, was not represented. Orwasky initiated the proceedings against Chuma in Hancock County Circuit Court to require the clerk to remove Lami's name from the election ballot.

Hancock County Circuit Court Judge James G. McClure upheld Orwasky's argument that Lami was not eligible as a candidate, but Lami appealed to the Supreme Court. By a 3-2 vote Wednesday, the appellate court granted review of the case.

If Lami is ineligible, Orwasky would be the other 1st Ward council nominee along with Peter Sokolowsky, who ran first in the primary.

The attorneys told the Supreme Court that two sets of ballots have been printed for the 1st Ward — one with the names of Sokolosky and Lami, the other with Sokolosky and Orwasky.

Court Views Pictures Of Sunken Sub

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — Pictures of the sunken submarine Thresher on the Atlantic Ocean bottom today were before the Navy Court of Inquiry seeking answers to the disaster which claimed 129 lives.

Capt. Frank A. Andrews, who has directed the search for the Thresher since she went down April 10, said the underwater pictures appear to indicate the submarine is in one piece but badly split at one point.

The Thresher's fatal dive was made in 8,400 feet of water some 220 miles off Boston. The accident occurred during a deep test dive following overhaul at the Portsmouth Navy Shipyard.

The pictures were made by a crew from the research vessel Robert D. Conrad which returned to Boston Friday with the photographs.

Efforts to make further pictures of the hull will be made by the bathyscaphe Trieste, the Navy said. The Trieste is scheduled to leave Boston Sunday for a closer look at the Thresher.

Sunday will be fair and warmer and some parts of Ohio may get temperatures in the mid-80's.

Prime consideration, it was learned, is being given to a public accommodations bill that would prohibit racial discrimination by businesses involved in interstate commerce.

The hope is that such a measure may alleviate tensions arising from sit-in demonstrations at department store lunch counters. Small restaurants which do not receive food or goods from other states presumably would not be affected. However, virtually all do.

The school legislation reported under consideration would be designed to implement the 1955 Supreme Court order that public schools be desegregated with "all deliberate speed."

The bill would leave the door open for local officials to set up specific timetables to effect desegregation under the guidance of federal authorities.

Where this is not done, federal authorities would be empowered to set a timetable on their own, subject to court review. Should local officials refuse to meet it they would face federal prosecution.

Congressional sources said Friday Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy will present the new legislation Thursday in a public hearing before the House Judiciary Committee.

But administration sources said such timing is not definite and it is understood no decision has been made on whether the school and public accommodations proposals should be presented to Congress by the attorney general or in a special presidential message.

Rep. Walter Taken At 69 By Leukemia

Democrat Had Been Elected To 16th Consecutive Term

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Francis E. Walter, 69, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, died Friday after serving in the House longer than any Pennsylvania Democrat.

Walter, who was elected to a 16th consecutive term last Nov. 6, had been confined to Georgetown University Hospital for several weeks. His death was attributed to leukemia, cancer of the blood.

President Kennedy said in a statement:

"I am saddened to hear of the death of Congressman Francis E. Walter. When I saw him on my recent visit to the hospital he was facing the future with the same faith and courage he had shown throughout his life. He will be greatly missed in the House of Representatives and all his friends mourn his passing."

Jack Yohe, an aide to the congressman, said Walter had been in a coma most of Friday. His physician, Dr. Darrell C. Crain, announced on May 22 that tests showed Walter was suffering from leukemia.

Walter's death and the death earlier this year of Rep. Clyde Doyle, D-Calif., puts Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-La., in line to become chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee.

The House lineup now becomes 276 Democrats and 177 Republicans, with two vacancies.

Walter, whose home was in Easton in eastern Pennsylvania, was co-author of the controversial McCarran-Walter immigration act. He ranked eighth in seniority in the House and second on the Judiciary Committee. He was reelected this year as Democratic Caucus chairman and was chairman also of the Democratic Patronage Committee in the House.

Jethro Man Surrenders In Stabbing

A 33-year-old Jethro man is being held in City Jail today on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon after allegedly stabbing a neighbor woman in the hand early this morning.

Jessie Floyd Kent, 730 Leonard St., surrendered at the police station at 3:33 a. m., about 50 minutes after police were called to the home of Emma Heft, 38, of 716 Leonard St.

Kent probably will be arraigned Monday morning in Municipal Court on the charge, Lt. W. E. McDaniel said. Kent refused to make a statement, Lt. McDaniel said.

Mrs. Heft was treated at City Hospital at 3 a. m. for multiple stab wounds of the right hand and fingers and then returned to City Hall by police for questioning.

Police received a call at 2:42 a. m. from Mrs. Iva Baker, 718 Leonard St., mother of Mrs. Heft, who said Kent had stabbed her daughter.

When Lt. McDaniel and Patrolman R. J. Brookes, Howard E. Frontz and Paul A. Burson Jr. arrived, they found Mrs. Heft and her mother on the steps of the mother's home.

The two women told officers Kent had fled west across the creek and Patrolmen Brookes and Frontz started a search for him while Lt. McDaniel and Officer Burson took Mrs. Heft to the hospital for treatment.

Officers Brookes and Frontz were unable to locate Kent in the area but he walked into City Hall at 3:33 a. m. to surrender, police said.

Ohio Traffic Fatality List Mounts To 14

Result Of Accidents Near Homes; Four Die In One Wreck

Traffic	14
Miscellaneous	1
Total	15

By The Associated Press

Holiday travel over Ohio's highways found motorists up to the challenge, but accidents stemming from casual transportation right around home resulted in a rash of traffic deaths Friday.

In black-and - white contrast to the Memorial Day and holiday eve record of no reported deaths, Friday — supposed lull between start and finish of the long holiday weekend—produced a rash of fatalities.

There were 14 known dead in traffic. Four came in one accident, a train-car crash in Springfield.

If the Friday pace continued, official predictions of 27 vehicle deaths for the 102-hour period could be unhappily fulfilled by midnight Sunday when the count ends.

Every traffic victim lost his life in his own county, most of them within a few blocks of home.

Mt. McKinley East Buttress Scaled By Six

TALKEETNA, Alaska (AP)—The mile-high, almost vertical east buttress of North America's highest mountain has been conquered for the first time by six mountain guides.

The men continued upward and reached the summit of Mt. McKinley May 25. Their ascent was reported Friday by Mary Carey, Talkeetna correspondent for the Fairbanks News-Miner.

The climbers said none of them suffered frostbite while scaling the 20,300-foot peak but one had a touch of heat exhaustion.

Warren Blesser, 24, Middlebury, Conn., suffered heat exhaustion while returning to base camp on Ruth Glacier. Blesser, Pete Lev, of Boulder, Colo., and Fullerton, Calif., and Fred Wright, Burbank, Calif., remained at the camp waiting for clearing weather so a bush pilot could fly them out.

The pilot, Don Sheldon, Fairbanks, flew the other three climbers here Wednesday.

Ballot Place Granted Lami

Weirton Council Nominee's Cleared

CHARLESTON — The State Supreme Court ruled Friday it cannot consider whether Clifford A. Lami is eligible as a city council candidate before next Tuesday's Weirton city election.

As a result, Lami's name will be on the ballot.

He will be one of two candidates from the 1st Ward because Supreme Court action earlier in the week stayed execution of a circuit judge's order removing him.

If the case follows normal channels, it will come up for arguments and a decision during the court's September term.

Present when the case came up for argument were attorneys for Lami, one of two First Ward nominees for council, and for Norman D. Orwasky, who ran third as a candidate in the May 7 primary and failed to win nomination.

But City Clerk Paul Chuma, defendant in the proceeding, was not represented. Orwasky initiated the proceedings against Chuma in Hancock County Circuit Court to require the clerk to remove Lami's name from the election ballot.

Hancock County Circuit Court Judge James G. McClure upheld Orwasky's argument that Lami was not eligible as a candidate, but Lami appealed to the Supreme Court. By a 3-2 vote Wednesday, the appellate court granted review of the case.

If Lami is ineligible, Orwasky would be the other 1st Ward council nominee along with Peter Sokolowsky, who ran first in the primary.

The attorneys told the Supreme Court that two sets of ballots have been printed for the 1st Ward — one with the names of Sokolosky and Lami, the other with Sokolosky and Orwasky.

Court Views Pictures Of Sunken Sub

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — Pictures of the sunken submarine Thresher on the Atlantic Ocean bottom today were before the Navy Court of Inquiry seeking answers to the disaster which claimed 129 lives.

Capt. Frank A. Andrews, who has directed the search for the Thresher since she went down April 10, said the underwater pictures appear to indicate the submarine is in one piece but badly split at one point.

The Thresher's fatal dive was made in 8,400 feet of water some 220 miles off Boston. The accident occurred during a deep test dive following overhaul at the Portsmouth Navy Shipyard.

The pictures were made by a crew from the research vessel Robert D. Conrad which returned to Boston Friday with the photographs.

Efforts to make further pictures of the hull will be made by the bathyscaphe Trieste, the Navy said. The Trieste is scheduled to leave Boston Sunday for a closer look at the Thresher.

Sunday will be fair and warmer and some parts of Ohio may get temperatures in the mid-80's.

Council Study Due In Repair On Standpipe

Legislation authorizing the Board of Public Utilities to seek bids for installation of a new roof on one of its twin Henry Ave. standpipes is scheduled for consideration at City Council's first June meeting Monday night at 8.

The request for the legislation was filed with Council at its meeting May 20 in a letter signed by W. O. Schneider, chairman of the board.

The cost was estimated at $2,600, but Schneider's letter said no new appropriation will be required because the funds already are available under money allocated for reservoir repairs this year.

Water Supt. Donald T. Duke said the metal roof is deteriorated badly at the point where it meets the vertical walls of the fabricated steel tank.

The standpipe scheduled for repair was erected in 1928. It is 20 feet in diameter and stands 70 feet high. The standpipe and a twin structure which adjoins it have a combined capacity of 330,000 gallons, as each holds 165,000 gallons.

Council also will consider another piece of legislation requested by the water board to retitle the position of sewer inspector formerly held by the late Floyd E. Tice. In the process, some of the duties will be changed.

Council was asked to retitle the position as "maintenance man" in the sewage department and fix the rate of pay at $2.20 hourly.

To make the change, Council will consider an ordinance abolishing the post of sewer inspector, followed by a separate piece of legislation creating the new post.

The Board of Public Utilities has jurisdiction over both the water and sewage departments.

Contract Fight Triggers Strike Of Glass Cutters

PITTSBURGH • — A contract dispute has triggered a strike by some 300 glass cutters against Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. plants in three states.

Members of the Window Glass Cutters League of America, AFL-CIO, walked off their jobs last night on expiration of their contract at plants at Henryetta, Okla. Clarksburg, W. Va. and Mount Vernon, Ohio.

The bulk of the some 3,000 production and maintenance workers at the window-making plants stayed on the job.

A company spokesman said 10 days of negotiations stalled on a union demand that glass cutters get paid for all glass shipped from the plants regardless of whether they did any work on the glass.

The union also demanded a 32-cent an hour wage hike, the spokesman said, but the company offered only 12 cents. Old pay rates were not disclosed.

No union spokesman was available for comment. No new negotiations were scheduled immediately.

Picket lines were established at Mount Vernon and Clarksburg.

County's Weather For May Marked By Damaging Frost

The 70-year average temperature for the month is 57.9 degrees, while this year the average was 55.3.

The low for the month was 23 degrees, registered May 2 and 24. The high was 87 on May 9.

The frost May 24 was accompanied by the lowest temperature ever recorded for this late in the month. There were frosts on May 24-25 in 1956, but the temperature was not as low.

The latest frost recorded was June 8, 1912, when the temperature was 30 degrees. The all-time low temperature was 19 degrees on May 10, 1947.

It is too early to determine the exact damage of the May 24 frost, but it was severe, Copeland said. The frost hurt gardens, fruit blooms, strawberry plants, etc. Oak, nut trees, locust, ash and other trees also were damaged as the frost apparently killed the leaf buds. It is not known whether or not they will come back. Hay and other small grains also were hurt.

Above - average rainfall and temperatures are needed to "get things growing better," he said. Pastures and hay are very short.

The rainfall of 1.81 inches was well below the 70-year average of 3.43 for the month. There were nine partly cloudy, 17 clear and five cloudy days for an average of 68 per cent sunshine. This is 3 per cent above average.

Council Study Due In Repair On Standpipe

Legislation authorizing the Board of Public Utilities to seek bids for installation of a new roof on one of its twin Henry Ave. standpipes is scheduled for consideration at City Council's first June meeting Monday night at 8.

The request for the legislation was filed with Council at its meeting May 20 in a letter signed by W. O. Schneider, chairman of the board.

The cost was estimated at $2,600, but Schneider's letter said no new appropriation will be required because the funds already are available under money allocated for reservoir repairs this year.

Water Supt. Donald T. Duke said the metal roof is deteriorated badly at the point where it meets the vertical walls of the fabricated steel tank.

The standpipe scheduled for repair was erected in 1928. It is 20 feet in diameter and stands 70 feet high. The standpipe and a twin structure which adjoins it have a combined capacity of 330,000 gallons, as each holds 165,000 gallons.

Council also will consider another piece of legislation requested by the water board to retitle the position of sewer inspector formerly held by the late Floyd E. Tice. In the process, some of the duties will be changed.

Council was asked to retitle the position as "maintenance man" in the sewage department and fix the rate of pay at $2.20 hourly.

To make the change, Council will consider an ordinance abolishing the post of sewer inspector, followed by a separate piece of legislation creating the new post.

The Board of Public Utilities has jurisdiction over both the water and sewage departments.

Contract Fight Triggers Strike Of Glass Cutters

PITTSBURGH • — A contract dispute has triggered a strike by some 300 glass cutters against Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. plants in three states.

Members of the Window Glass Cutters League of America, AFL-CIO, walked off their jobs last night on expiration of their contract at plants at Henryetta, Okla. Clarksburg, W. Va. and Mount Vernon, Ohio.

The bulk of the some 3,000 production and maintenance workers at the window-making plants stayed on the job.

A company spokesman said 10 days of negotiations stalled on a union demand that glass cutters get paid for all glass shipped from the plants regardless of whether they did any work on the glass.

The union also demanded a 32-cent an hour wage hike, the spokesman said, but the company offered only 12 cents. Old pay rates were not disclosed.

No union spokesman was available for comment. No new negotiations were scheduled immediately.

Picket lines were established at Mount Vernon and Clarksburg.

County's Weather For May Marked By Damaging Frost

Below - average temperatures and damaging frosts marked May weather, according to Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Millport.

The 70-year average temperature for the month is 57.9 degrees, while this year the average was 55.3.

The low for the month was 23 degrees, registered May 2 and 24. The high was 87 on May 9.

The frost May 24 was accompanied by the lowest temperature ever recorded for this late in the month. There were frosts on May 24-25 in 1956, but the temperature was not as low.

The latest frost recorded was June 8, 1912, when the temperature was 30 degrees. The all-time low temperature was 19 degrees on May 10, 1947.

It is too early to determine the exact damage of the May 24 frost, but it was severe, Copeland said. The frost hurt gardens, fruit blooms, strawberry plants, etc. Oak, nut trees, locust, ash and other trees also were damaged as the frost apparently killed the leaf buds. It is not known whether or not they will come back. Hay and other small grains also were hurt.

Above - average rainfall and temperatures are needed to "get things growing better," he said. Pastures and hay are very short.

The rainfall of 1.81 inches was well below the 70-year average of 3.43 for the month. There were nine partly cloudy, 17 clear and five cloudy days for an average of 68 per cent sunshine. This is 3 per cent above average.

Train Is Blocked By Stalled Truck

NEW CUMBERLAND — A Pennsylvania Railroad train was stalled for an hour and a half here this morning when a pickup truck driven by a local resident became trapped on a railroad crossing near the sewage disposal plant.

At last report, the locomotive hauling four or five freight cars was still not underway. Police Chief William Webster said the crews apparently left the job when their work shift ended.

Chief Webster arrested Kenneth L. Bailey, 27, of Chestnut St., the driver, on charges of obstructing traffic, trespassing and intoxication. A passenger, Harry Duayne, 26, of Burgettstown R. D. 1 was cited on charges of intoxication and trespassing. Bailey was held in jail in lieu of $139 bond, and Duayne in lieu of $83 bond. They are due hearings Monday night before Municipal Judge John D. Herron.

Chief Webster said Leonard A. Gray of Midland was conductor of the train.

Ex-Chester Man Hurt In Canton Crash

David P. Brookes, former Chester High School basketball star, is recuperating in Aultman Hospital in Canton with severe injuries received in a traffic crash involving four vehicles Tuesday night on Route 30 between Canton and Minerva.

Brookes, 21, who is to receive a degree from Malone College of Canton in commencement exercises Monday, was returning home with his girl friend, Miss Janet Riggs, 20, of Van Wert when the accident happened near Robertsville. Miss Riggs was also injured.

Stark County State Highway patrolmen said a car driven west on Route 30 by Gary Lee Snyder, 17, of Minerva had stopped to make a left turn into private property. A truck operated by John S. Machesney, 37, of Canton stopped behind the Snyder car and was hit in the rear by a tractor-trailer rig operated by William D. Hunt, 43, of Fairview, officers said.

Patrolmen said the rig then veered into the eastbound lane and collided with Brookes' 1951 Ford sedan.

Brookes received a broken wrist, broken jaw, a deep cut of the chin, and contusions of the legs and wrists. Miss Riggs received a broken elbow and cuts of the head.

The ex-Panther cage star, who was most valuable player on Malone College's team, is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Brookes, 300 Louisiana Ave., Chester. Miss Riggs is a daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Dale Riggs of Van Wert.

Brookes has been hired as a teacher in Salem McKinley school for next year. His car was demolished in the crash about 6 p. m. The driver of the rig was cited on a charge of failure to stop in the assured clear distance ahead.

Tallahassee Negroes Win Court Protection

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Tallahassee Negroes have won court protection for regulated picketing of the city's white movie theaters in what their attorney called a sweeping court victory over segregation.

As a result, the delighted Negroes called off a scheduled 12th mass demonstration before the city's two white theaters. Instead, they met Friday on the campus of Florida A&M University, a Negro school, where they mapped plans for a lawsuit opening the theaters to all. Earlier demonstrations resulted in the arrests of more than 200 Negroes.

Other plans included continuous picketing of the two theaters today and Sunday. During the picketing, Negro students planned to try to buy tickets, but Negro leaders said they would leave peacefully if refused.

In addition, they prepared to file damage suits against the Florida and State theaters for what they called indignities growing out of their arrest as a result of the restraining order obtained by theater manager Les Pendleton.

Train Is Blocked By Stalled Truck

NEW CUMBERLAND — A Pennsylvania Railroad train was stalled for an hour and a half here this morning when a pickup truck driven by a local resident became trapped on a railroad crossing near the sewage disposal plant.

At last report, the locomotive hauling four or five freight cars was still not underway. Police Chief William Webster said the crews apparently left the job when their work shift ended.

Chief Webster arrested Kenneth L. Bailey, 27, of Chestnut St., the driver, on charges of obstructing traffic, trespassing and intoxication. A passenger, Harry Duayne, 26, of Burgettstown R. D. 1 was cited on charges of intoxication and trespassing. Bailey was held in jail in lieu of $139 bond, and Duayne in lieu of $83 bond. They are due hearings Monday night before Municipal Judge John D. Herron.

Chief Webster said Leonard A. Gray of Midland was conductor of the train.

Ex-Chester Man Hurt In Canton Crash

David P. Brookes, former Chester High School basketball star, is recuperating in Aultman Hospital in Canton with severe injuries received in a traffic crash involving four vehicles Tuesday night on Route 30 between Canton and Minerva.

Brookes, 21, who is to receive a degree from Malone College of Canton in commencement exercises Monday, was returning home with his girl friend, Miss Janet Riggs, 20, of Van Wert when the accident happened near Robertsville. Miss Riggs was also injured.

Stark County State Highway patrolmen said a car driven west on Route 30 by Gary Lee Snyder, 17, of Minerva had stopped to make a left turn into private property. A truck operated by John S. Machesney, 37, of Canton stopped behind the Snyder car and was hit in the rear by a tractor-trailer rig operated by William D. Hunt, 43, of Fairview, officers said.

Patrolmen said the rig then veered into the eastbound lane and collided with Brookes' 1951 Ford sedan.

Brookes received a broken wrist, broken jaw, a deep cut of the chin, and contusions of the legs and wrists. Miss Riggs received a broken elbow and cuts of the head.

The ex-Panther cage star, who was most valuable player on Malone College's team, is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Brookes, 300 Louisiana Ave., Chester. Miss Riggs is a daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Dale Riggs of Van Wert.

Brookes has been hired as a teacher in Salem McKinley school for next year. His car was demolished in the crash about 6 p. m. The driver of the rig was cited on a charge of failure to stop in the assured clear distance ahead.

Tallahassee Negroes Win Court Protection

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Tallahassee Negroes have won court protection for regulated picketing of the city's white movie theaters in what their attorney called a sweeping court victory over segregation.

As a result, the delighted Negroes called off a scheduled 12th mass demonstration before the city's two white theaters. Instead, they met Friday on the campus of Florida A&M University, a Negro school, where they mapped plans for a lawsuit opening the theaters to all. Earlier demonstrations resulted in the arrests of more than 200 Negroes.

Other plans included continuous picketing of the two theaters today and Sunday. During the picketing, Negro students planned to try to buy tickets, but Negro leaders said they would leave peacefully if refused.

In addition, they prepared to file damage suits against the Florida and State theaters for what they called indignities growing out of their arrest as a result of the restraining order obtained by theater manager Les Pendleton.

Ground Broken For OSU Branch

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Ground was broken here Friday for the first building of the Dayton branch of Miami and Ohio State Universities.

The building was named for S. C. Allyn, retired board chairman of one of Dayton's largest industries, the National Cash Register Co. He served as co-chairman of the campaign which raised $3 million as "seed money" to get the university branch begun.

President Novice Fawcett of Ohio State said selection of the name Allyn Hall was approved by the Miami trustees and by a "caucus of six of the seven" Ohio State trustees. Allyn is the seventh member of the OSU board.

Allyn Hall, expected to open in September 1964, will be the main classroom building and hold administration offices of the new higher education center.

No One Dares To Say It

That group of "leading businessmen"—Business Committee for Tax Reduction—which made news a month ago by asking for tax reduction in 1963, wants it understood it also is asking for spending prudence.

It is asking for budget reductions. In its original announcement, it urged " . . . economies in and prudent control of federal expenditures," and declared: "Failure on the part of the Congress and the administration to establish and adhere to rigid expenditure discipline could well negate the good emanating from tax reduction."

What is the issue here? Why must this group of well-known executives emphasize its belief in spending prudence to go along with its belief that the federal government has been taxing free enterprise into ruin?

NO ONE dares to say it.

But everybody knows what the trouble is.

The United States is unable to prove it can control its budget.

Its bureaucracy, interested only in spending, holds veto power over Congress and the White House. From the topheavy budgets of the Department of Defense down to the modest spending of the Department of Justice, spenders call the tune.

It is not the actual arithmetic of the budget that causes alarm. There are ways to show that the arithmetic is not alarming.

Deficit financing is like the middle stages of narcotics addiction, when the patient is still saying he can take the stuff or let it alone.

The truth is he cannot let it alone. He is hooked.

THE UNITED STATES is hooked on profligate spending.

It cannot swear off. Its "spendocrats" won't let it.

The peril is not what they are doing today but what they will be doing when their mania has carried them further toward ruin.

Able, knowledgeable men are telling the country that high taxes made necessary by spending addiction are ruining the American economy.

But what really threatens to ruin the country is the addiction itself — the spending mania that cannot be checked short of ruin.

America needs a Spenders Anonymous for public profligates.

What's The Good News?

In his syndicated column, Roscoe Drummond of the New York Herald Tribune recently tried an interesting variation on a familiar theme.

Instead of commenting on the bad news, he listed some good news and commented on it instead.

The United States and the Common Market had agreed on tariff cutting. The U.S. Supreme Court was insisting firmly on first-class citizenship for Negroes in the irreconcilable South. The fight for anti-Communism in Viet Nam was looking up. President Kennedy's Air Force plane had flown from Washington to Moscow in 8 hours, 32 minutes and 42 seconds, a record time, and had broken 14 other flight records en route. Wheat farmers had voted against restrictive controls. And Major Gordon Cooper was making his countrymen feel good about his charming mixture and competency and reticence.

PROGRESS IS being made, observed observer Drummond. "I venture the personal conviction that we are living in one of the most privileged periods of all human history when by our own stamina and resolution as a people and as a nation we can shape the conflicting forces loose in today's world. I believe we need never fear the future when we are willing to face the present."

The point is well-made. Preoccupation with things that are wrong ruins perspective. In local, regional, state and federal government, more things are going right than wrong.

The seamy side is always there to scrutinize, but it really has no meaning unless the finished side is appreciated.

More countries are living at peace, more people are living in tranquility, more things are in order than are in chaos, violence and disorder.

IT IS THE very fact these things are commonplace that makes chaos, violence and disorder seem unusual enough to be newsworthy. Yet because nothing else is discussed it's easy to get the impression that the unusual has become the universal.

Make a list of all the things that are fine, all the things that are right. It will be suprisingly long.

Two Praiseworthy Attempts

Almost everybody complains about the high rate of federal spending, but very few do anything about it.

One who is in a position to try is Sen. Frank J. Lausche, but while the Ohio Democrat gets support from an ineffective Republican minority, he gets virtually no help from his own party.

Sen. Lausche has not asked the Senate for king-sized reductions, as federal expenditures go. His requests have been modest because he knows that the sum of small cutbacks for relative inconsequentials ultimately can equal the massive figure which impresses most legislators as being too vital to stand inspection.

Two cases in point saw Sen. Lausche's efforts go down the drain in the Senate this week.

In one, he failed by a 58-22 vote to eliminate from the $986 million Interior Department bill $310,000 for planning the National Fisheries and Aquarium in Washington.

In the other, his plan to limit the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's two-year budget for the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency to $12 million was rejected.

We like the senator's spunk and we like his philosophy of restraint in federal spending.

But most of all, we like his willingness to try, even in the face of what he realizes will be almost certain defeat.

We wish there were more like him.

The Good Provider Will Provide

In the repetitive refusal of the Soviet Union and its satellites and other dues-delinquent members to pay what they owe to the United Nations there is irritation. There also should be a lesson.

The United Nations was to have been a cooperative organization to keep the peace under a doctrine of collective security.

It was an idea conceived in the United States and put into working order by U.S. initiative and funds. It was an American project, given an aura of international support at the outset by the formal participation on the invitation of other countries.

It owes its existence and operation to U.S. support and money. Every member knows the United States is committed as a point of policy to maintaining the United Nations as a key instrument of its national policy.

Thus, recalcitrant members act accordingly when it is time to pay their dues and assessments. They let Uncle Sam cover whatever part of the check they don't feel like recovering because they know Uncle Sam will pay any price to keep the United Nations in some kind of working order.

Far from thinking of themselves as deadbeats, which is the U.S. version of their default, they think of themselves — if they are delinquent in their payments — as members who already have paid what they think they owe and do not intend to be imposed on further.

The lesson is that he who makes the proposition to start an expensive project can count on being stuck with the check if he lets it be known he will reach for it.

Eulogy By Reston

By Truman Twill

In the last rites for Orvil E. Dryfoos, president and publisher of The New York Times, nothing was more memorable than the eulogy by James Reston, Washington correspondent for The Times.

The practice of eulogizing is always admirable when done well—and no one could have done it with more grace than it was done by Mr. Reston.

Consider this passage at the end of the eulogy:

"Let us then honor Orvil Dryfoos with remembrance rather than with tears. For his children will never be able to cry as much as he has made them laugh."

Or this one:

"The obit-writers had a hard weekend with Orv because they kept hunting for him in the files and, of course, he wasn't there. He didn't make speeches. He made friends."

Words like these, delivered in this instance at the request of the widow of the deceased, give the leavetaking of a life a rare dignity. Far too often they remain unsaid, not because no one wanted to say them but because no one was able to say them.

Acknowledging that the James Restons are not found in every assemblage of mourners, those who heard him eulogize Orvil Dryfoos would have to agree that even if the eulogizers were only a fraction as capable they should be called on whenever possible to give the ring of sincerity to funeral services.

Mr. Dryfoos died as a result of the overanxiety he felt during the long newspaper strike in New York last winter. He felt keenly the tragedy that had befallen the papers and their employes, so much so that when the strike ended he was admitted to a hospital for treatment.

His heart had given out.

But it never gave out in a spiritual sense, his eulogist declared.

"He had room in it," said Mr. Reston, "for every joy and everybody else's joy. This was the thing that set him apart—this warmness and purity of spirit, this considerateness, of his mother, whom he telephoned every day, of his wife and children, of his colleagues and competitors. And this uncorrupted heart, broken or no, is what is likely to be remembered of him. . ."

I WOULD NOT have liked to miss the Reston tribute and am grateful to The Times for publishing it for Times readers.

What Are Rules For, Anyway?

Anti-Racket Unionists Face Fight

By Victor Riesel

UNION CITY, N.J.

If you read it in a novel you wouldn't believe it. In this general area lies the headquarters of the largest teamster local in the land. Also the blood, the sweat, the tears, the last few dollars of the opposition to the leadership. Also from time to time dented heads, broken bodies and a corpse, possibly two.

Victor Riesel

Men with guts who have been leading the anti-administration ticket have been shot at, mugged, pursued down highways, hammered, reviled lewdly by goons, cursed at from loud speaker trucks. There have been nepotism, conviction and indictment of officials, elections investigated by several divisions of the federal government.

There have been suspensions of oppositionists and weird resolutions on salaries and strong-arm tactics at meetings.

A secretary-treasurer, Tony (Three Fingers) Castellito, walked out of a union gathering on the night of June 3, 1961, got into his brown Cadillac and hasn't been seen since.

ALL THIS has been whirling about the 16,000-member Local 560, International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

A lone band of men making a lone fight, shuttling between here and Washington, have been leading a crusade virtually ignored by the land — though, in fact, their victory would be a victory for all, their defeat a defeat for all, unionists or not.

When they finally got to an election last Dec. 14, they lost by 577 votes. And they charge that some 3,000 members strangely just never got notification of the poll. So the Bureau of Labor-Management Reports and the FBI have been probing.

The oppositionists might have fought on alone in blood and sweat had not one of them, 6-foot, 200-pound ex-Marine Walter Glockner, been shot down in a nearby town. Now the world watches.

But it is not the first violence, though as always the assailants are unidentified by the oppositionists. Like George Phillips, one of the stand-up crusaders. He was mugged and stomped in another union hall. Later his truck was followed and when he got out he was hit by claw hammers. But he came back.

It was a buddy of his who was bulleted down the other day.

EVERYBODY now knows this happened in the early morning hours after he slugged an East Side New York muscle man at a shop stewards' meeting the previous night. But what went before that is little known.

Phillips had attempted to take the floor at a still earlier membership meeting to protest the appointment of a new business agent. Phillips was ruled out of order — and the union meetings were adjourned for the rest of the summer. So Glockner decided to act at a shop stewards' meeting on the night of Thursday, May 23.

This is a weird local, indeed. Its leader is twice-indicted Tony (Pro) Provenzano — on trial on charges of taking $17,200 in exchange for labor peace, and soon to be tried on charges of violating the Taft-Hartley law by living in a $26,000 home supplied by a trucking firm with which his union has contracts. Pro's trial was postponed for months because he fell down an elevator shaft when he left his office on a Sunday afternoon. Someone had opened the shaft door.

This was strange because Pro is rarely alone. He has two brothers. Both work for the local. Salvatore (Sammy) Provenzano is a trustee. He was in the chair at the grim, violent shop stewards' meeting that Thursday night. The other brother is Nunzio Provenzano.

UNTIL RECENTLY Nunzio was vice president of Teamsters' Local 522 over in Newark. But he was convicted of attempted grand larceny along with a Local 560 business agent called Salvatore Briguglio and Eustace Roper, president of Jersey City Local 660.

They got two to four years for asking $10,000 from a New York City ornamental iron company owner. They promised he'd get a soft contract from another Teamster local.

After the recent conviction of Nunzio, his brother Tony took him out of Local 522 and made him a business agent of Local 560, so to act while Nunzio is out on appeal.

Mr. President Tony Pro is a man of influence. He is also president of the New Jersey Joint Council of Teamsters and 12th vice president of the international brotherhood in Washington. He is the gentleman of the highways who is not now taking the $75,000 a year in wage increases voted him by some 300 of the 16,000 members of the local.

When and if Mr. Pro decides to take the money, he will be the world's highest paid union president -- higher even than the president of the United States.

This is the land of the brave, all right. We know that because of George Phillips' sturdy band. But is it still the land of the free?

More Income Taxes

By David Lawrence

Congress Asked To Broaden Collection Areas

The House Ways and Means Committee, at the instigation of the Kennedy administration, has opened up a Pandora's Box of troubles for certain American taxpayers. Millions of persons will discover for the first time that they have been evading taxes and are delinquent on what the government is entitled to collect from them.

David Lawrence

The Treasury Department, at the request of the President, asked Congress the other day to require the payment of income taxes by certain individuals who receive life insurance policies from their employers.

Although not a cent of the money is received by the employe and the proceeds are paid to his family after his death, the Kennedy administration wants the amount of the premiums paid by the employer each year to be taxed as income to the worker just the same as if these were paid in the form of wages.

Although no money is handled and no cash benefit of any kind is received by the employe, there is to be a tax on premiums over and above a certain amount of life-insurance protection.

The administration wanted to fix the exempted amount of the policy at $5,000, but members of Congress are balking and want to set the limit of exemption at a much higher figure.

The principle involved, however, is what will provoke widespread uneasiness concerning all the benefits now given by the employer to the employe which are not in the form of cash.

THUS, HERE ARE some of the items on which many individuals are not making out a complete return and are presumably delinquent on what they really owe the Treasury:

1. All seniority rights in employment or lay-offs — recognized and granted by an employer whether or not at the behest of a union — are taxable unless Congress specifically exempts them. For this is a form of protection like life insurance — a system of job insurance covering certain industries.

2. The checking off of labor-union dues each week is a service for employes, and a proportionate share of the cost would be taxable income to each employe unless exempted by Congress. The same would apply to authorized deductions for charitable contributions or purchase of government bonds.

3. Luncheons provided by an employer at the factory on in the office, and any facilities for the eating of the lunches employes bring, constitute benefits on which the individual owes taxes unless Congress now exempts them by law.

4. Parking facilities, involving the outlay of large sums of money each week, are provided by many employers. The amount, when divided among the employes using the parking lot, constitutes income to the employe. Since Congress has not passed a law exempting such income, the workers using the facilities are really obligated to ascertain the sums due and include them in gross income.

5. The services of secretaries or stenographers in handling personal correspondence for executives as part of their jobs can be calculated, and the cost of the time attributable to work done for individual executives can legally be taxed as a form of income paid by the employer to these executives.

6. Gifts made by employers at Christmas time are not gifts in a legal sense. Unless all of these are specifically exempted by law, employes will have to find out the cost of such gifts and add this to their gross income as a part of their wages.

IT SO HAPPENS that the proceeds of life insurance policies, whether carried by an employer's payment of premium or by the employe himself, are included also as a part of the estate of the deceased and are subject to taxation again if the estate exceeds a certain amount.

So the government even now has a means of taxing life insurance policies, but has not until a few weeks ago considered the imposition of an income tax payment on the premium money paid by the employer on the basis that this has to be considered as a part of an employes income.

One argument used by the Treasury's experts to justify what they are doing is that the self-employed have no such advantage. The number of self-employed to have an exemption for life insurance premiums up to the amounts left untaxed in the case of those persons who are not self-employed.

BROADLY SPEAKING, the government has winked at the habit of many citizens in failing to include in their income-tax returns certain benefits received from their employers.

The Supreme Court of the United States has ruled, however, that, if the payment by the employer arises primarily from "the constraining force of any moral or legal duty" or from "the incentive of anticipated benefit" of an economic nature, it's not a gift and that "what controls is the intention with which payment, however voluntary, has been made."

The companies, to be sure, get a tax deduction for all payments or expenses incurred in connection with the employe's services to it, including gifts or benefits.

The current theory, however, is that the individual has owed and still owes an income tax on all such costs unless Congress now specifically exempts these benefits from taxation.

Battle Of The Insects

By Stuart H. Loory

The Red Chinese have no time to worry about a "Silent Spring" (a la Rachel Carson). They have problems with growing enough food to feed their hundreds of millions of people—to make them strong and maybe into the backbone of a conquering military machine.

So, in the last few years, they have begun a massive program of insect control. They are fighting to tame the locusts, parasites, midges, weevils and borers that have wrecked havoc in the sorrowful land for so many years.

The Reds have started with nothing. Before the 1949 revolution there was, according to Dr. Tien-hsi Cheng, no organized research in entomology (or in any science) in all of China.

In the early years of the Red Chinese government, Chinese antomologists, along with other scientists, were attacked as "pro-American and "bourgeoise."

Entomologists such as Chiu Shin-Foon, a graduate of Cornell University and a professor at the Sun Yat-Sen University in Canton (now the South China Agricultural College) were humiliated and forced to openly confess sins against the Communists.

BUT TODAY, Dr. Cheng reports, Prof. Chiu and his colleagues are riding high. The Reds have discovered that insect control is in their best interest and that they need all the information they can get about the little pests that, along with floods and droughts, have played such an important role in Chinese history.

Dr. Cheng, a professor of zoology at Pennsylvania State University, has been following scientific developments in his native country ever since he left Red China a year before the Reds came to power.

He thinks the Western world is receiving a very distorted picture of what's going on behind the Bamboo Curtain from the reports of refugees reaching Hong Kong. He points out the reports of famine a year ago now have been shown to have been greatly exaggerated. A study of technical literature at the time showed that Chinese caloric intake was such that the reported famine could not have been possible for a great number of people.

To correct such misimpressions he recently published his insect control studies in "Science," the publication of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Western scientists in particular, he says, should keep abreast of technological developments in Red China.

"In entomology, as in other sciences, all available means are being utilized in research and developments," Dr. Cheng writes. "These include the old and the new, the native and the Western, the efficient and the awkward.

DR. CHENG'S article goes into great detail on how the Reds have used various methods, including not only insecticides but also biological controls (introducing insects to eat pests and the like; and cultural methods (changing planting dates) to overcome their problems.

No One Dares To Say It

That group of "leading businessmen"—Business Committee for Tax Reduction—which made news a month ago by asking for tax reduction in 1963, wants it understood it also is asking for spending prudence.

It is asking for budget reductions. In its original announcement, it urged " . . . economies in and prudent control of federal expenditures," and declared: "Failure on the part of the Congress and the administration to establish and adhere to rigid expenditure discipline could well negate the good emanating from tax reduction."

What is the issue here? Why must this group of well-known executives emphasize its belief in spending prudence to go along with its belief that the federal government has been taxing free enterprise into ruin?

NO ONE dares to say it.

But everybody knows what the trouble is.

The United States is unable to prove it can control its budget.

Its bureaucracy, interested only in spending, holds veto power over Congress and the White House. From the topheavy budgets of the Department of Defense down to the modest spending of the Department of Justice, spenders call the tune.

It is not the actual arithmetic of the budget that causes alarm. There are ways to show that the arithmetic is not alarming.

Deficit financing is like the middle stages of narcotics addiction, when the patient is still saying he can take the stuff or let it alone.

The truth is he cannot let it alone. He is hooked.

THE UNITED STATES is hooked on profligate spending.

It cannot swear off. Its "spendocrats" won't let it.

The peril is not what they are doing today but what they will be doing when their mania has carried them further toward ruin.

Able, knowledgeable men are telling the country that high taxes made necessary by spending addiction are ruining the American economy.

But what really threatens to ruin the country is the addiction itself — the spending mania that cannot be checked short of ruin.

America needs a Spenders Anonymous for public profligates.

What's The Good News?

In his syndicated column, Roscoe Drummond of the New York Herald Tribune recently tried an interesting variation on a familiar theme.

Instead of commenting on the bad news, he listed some good news and commented on it instead.

The United States and the Common Market had agreed on tariff cutting. The U.S. Supreme Court was insisting firmly on first-class citizenship for Negroes in the irreconcilable South. The fight for anti-Communism in Viet Nam was looking up. President Kennedy's Air Force plane had flown from Washington to Moscow in 8 hours, 32 minutes and 42 seconds, a record time, and had broken 14 other flight records en route. Wheat farmers had voted against restrictive controls. And Major Gordon Cooper was making his countrymen feel good about his charming mixture and competency and reticence.

PROGRESS IS being made, observed observer Drummond. "I venture the personal conviction that we are living in one of the most privileged periods of all human history when by our own stamina and resolution as a people and as a nation we can shape the conflicting forces loose in today's world. I believe we need never fear the future when we are willing to face the present."

The point is well-made. Preoccupation with things that are wrong ruins perspective. In local, regional, state and federal government, more things are going right than wrong.

The seamy side is always there to scrutinize, but it really has no meaning unless the finished side is appreciated.

More countries are living at peace, more people are living in tranquility, more things are in order than are in chaos, violence and disorder.

IT IS THE very fact these things are commonplace that makes chaos, violence and disorder seem unusual enough to be newsworthy. Yet because nothing else is discussed it's easy to get the impression that the unusual has become the universal.

Make a list of all the things that are fine, all the things that are right. It will be suprisingly long.

Two Praiseworthy Attempts

Almost everybody complains about the high rate of federal spending, but very few do anything about it.

One who is in a position to try is Sen. Frank J. Lausche, but while the Ohio Democrat gets support from an ineffective Republican minority, he gets virtually no help from his own party.

Sen. Lausche has not asked the Senate for king-sized reductions, as federal expenditures go. His requests have been modest because he knows that the sum of small cutbacks for relative inconsequentials ultimately can equal the massive figure which impresses most legislators as being too vital to stand inspection.

Two cases in point saw Sen. Lausche's efforts go down the drain in the Senate this week.

In one, he failed by a 58-22 vote to eliminate from the $986 million Interior Department bill $310,000 for planning the National Fisheries and Aquarium in Washington.

In the other, his plan to limit the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's two-year budget for the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency to $12 million was rejected.

We like the senator's spunk and we like his philosophy of restraint in federal spending.

But most of all, we like his willingness to try, even in the face of what he realizes will be almost certain defeat.

We wish there were more like him.

The Good Provider Will Provide

In the repetitive refusal of the Soviet Union and its satellites and other dues-delinquent members to pay what they owe to the United Nations there is irritation. There also should be a lesson.

The United Nations was to have been a cooperative organization to keep the peace under a doctrine of collective security.

It was an idea conceived in the United States and put into working order by U.S. initiative and funds. It was an American project, given an aura of international support at the outset by the formal participation on the invitation of other countries.

It owes its existence and operation to U.S. support and money. Every member knows the United States is committed as a point of policy to maintaining the United Nations as a key instrument of its national policy.

Thus, recalcitrant members act accordingly when it is time to pay their dues and assessments. They let Uncle Sam cover whatever part of the check they don't feel like recovering because they know Uncle Sam will pay any price to keep the United Nations in some kind of working order.

Far from thinking of themselves as deadbeats, which is the U.S. version of their default, they think of themselves — if they are delinquent in their payments — as members who already have paid what they think they owe and do not intend to be imposed on further.

The lesson is that he who makes the proposition to start an expensive project can count on being stuck with the check if he lets it be known he will reach for it.

Eulogy By Reston

By Truman Twill

In the last rites for Orvil E. Dryfoos, president and publisher of The New York Times, nothing was more memorable than the eulogy by James Reston, Washington correspondent for The Times.

The practice of eulogizing is always admirable when done well—and no one could have done it with more grace than it was done by Mr. Reston.

Consider this passage at the end of the eulogy:

"Let us then honor Orvil Dryfoos with remembrance rather than with tears. For his children will never be able to cry as much as he has made them laugh."

Or this one:

"The obit-writers had a hard weekend with Orv because they kept hunting for him in the files and, of course, he wasn't there. He didn't make speeches. He made friends."

Words like these, delivered in this instance at the request of the widow of the deceased, give the leavetaking of a life a rare dignity. Far too often they remain unsaid, not because no one wanted to say them but because no one was able to say them.

Acknowledging that the James Restons are not found in every assemblage of mourners, those who heard him eulogize Orvil Dryfoos would have to agree that even if the eulogizers were only a fraction as capable they should be called on whenever possible to give the ring of sincerity to funeral services.

Mr. Dryfoos died as a result of the overanxiety he felt during the long newspaper strike in New York last winter. He felt keenly the tragedy that had befallen the papers and their employes, so much so that when the strike ended he was admitted to a hospital for treatment.

His heart had given out.

But it never gave out in a spiritual sense, his eulogist declared.

"He had room in it," said Mr. Reston, "for every joy and everybody else's joy. This was the thing that set him apart—this warmness and purity of spirit, this considerateness, of his mother, whom he telephoned every day, of his wife and children, of his colleagues and competitors. And this uncorrupted heart, broken or no, is what is likely to be remembered of him. . ."

I WOULD NOT have liked to miss the Reston tribute and am grateful to The Times for publishing it for Times readers.

What Are Rules For, Anyway?

Anti-Racket Unionists Face Fight

By Victor Riesel

UNION CITY, N.J.

If you read it in a novel you wouldn't believe it. In this general area lies the headquarters of the largest teamster local in the land. Also the blood, the sweat, the tears, the last few dollars of the opposition to the leadership. Also from time to time dented heads, broken bodies and a corpse, possibly two.

Victor Riesel

Men with guts who have been leading the anti-administration ticket have been shot at, mugged, pursued down highways, hammered, reviled lewdly by goons, cursed at from loud speaker trucks. There have been nepotism, conviction and indictment of officials, elections investigated by several divisions of the federal government.

There have been suspensions of oppositionists and weird resolutions on salaries and strong-arm tactics at meetings.

A secretary-treasurer, Tony (Three Fingers) Castellito, walked out of a union gathering on the night of June 3, 1961, got into his brown Cadillac and hasn't been seen since.

ALL THIS has been whirling about the 16,000-member Local 560, International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

A lone band of men making a lone fight, shuttling between here and Washington, have been leading a crusade virtually ignored by the land — though, in fact, their victory would be a victory for all, their defeat a defeat for all, unionists or not.

When they finally got to an election last Dec. 14, they lost by 577 votes. And they charge that some 3,000 members strangely just never got notification of the poll. So the Bureau of Labor-Management Reports and the FBI have been probing.

The oppositionists might have fought on alone in blood and sweat had not one of them, 6-foot, 200-pound ex-Marine Walter Glockner, been shot down in a nearby town. Now the world watches.

But it is not the first violence, though as always the assailants are unidentified by the oppositionists. Like George Phillips, one of the stand-up crusaders. He was mugged and stomped in another union hall. Later his truck was followed and when he got out he was hit by claw hammers. But he came back.

It was a buddy of his who was bulleted down the other day.

EVERYBODY now knows this happened in the early morning hours after he slugged an East Side New York muscle man at a shop stewards' meeting the previous night. But what went before that is little known.

Phillips had attempted to take the floor at a still earlier membership meeting to protest the appointment of a new business agent. Phillips was ruled out of order — and the union meetings were adjourned for the rest of the summer. So Glockner decided to act at a shop stewards' meeting on the night of Thursday, May 23.

This is a weird local, indeed. Its leader is twice-indicted Tony (Pro) Provenzano — on trial on charges of taking $17,200 in exchange for labor peace, and soon to be tried on charges of violating the Taft-Hartley law by living in a $26,000 home supplied by a trucking firm with which his union has contracts. Pro's trial was postponed for months because he fell down an elevator shaft when he left his office on a Sunday afternoon. Someone had opened the shaft door.

This was strange because Pro is rarely alone. He has two brothers. Both work for the local. Salvatore (Sammy) Provenzano is a trustee. He was in the chair at the grim, violent shop stewards' meeting that Thursday night. The other brother is Nunzio Provenzano.

UNTIL RECENTLY Nunzio was vice president of Teamsters' Local 522 over in Newark. But he was convicted of attempted grand larceny along with a Local 560 business agent called Salvatore Briguglio and Eustace Roper, president of Jersey City Local 660.

They got two to four years for asking $10,000 from a New York City ornamental iron company owner. They promised he'd get a soft contract from another Teamster local.

After the recent conviction of Nunzio, his brother Tony took him out of Local 522 and made him a business agent of Local 560, so to act while Nunzio is out on appeal.

Mr. President Tony Pro is a man of influence. He is also president of the New Jersey Joint Council of Teamsters and 12th vice president of the international brotherhood in Washington. He is the gentleman of the highways who is not now taking the $75,000 a year in wage increases voted him by some 300 of the 16,000 members of the local.

When and if Mr. Pro decides to take the money, he will be the world's highest paid union president -- higher even than the president of the United States.

This is the land of the brave, all right. We know that because of George Phillips' sturdy band. But is it still the land of the free?

It is a portrait of French Cardinal Richelieu, painted by the French artist Philippe de Champaigne, who died in 1674.

He obviously still thinks of me—and I thought I was all alone and forgotten."

Barry and Mureen Slater, married in Wigan, England, returned from their wedding to find that their bed had disappeared. The bed was a present from the groom's parents, who had put it outside for removal to the newlyweds' home. They also put out an old bath tub which they asked the trash collectors to take away.

The garbage men took the bed and left the bath. When the couple rushed to the garbage depot they discovered the bed had already been burned.

More Income Taxes

By David Lawrence

Congress Asked To Broaden Collection Areas

The House Ways and Means Committee, at the instigation of the Kennedy administration, has opened up a Pandora's Box of troubles for certain American taxpayers. Millions of persons will discover for the first time that they have been evading taxes and are delinquent on what the government is entitled to collect from them.

David Lawrence

The Treasury Department, at the request of the President, asked Congress the other day to require the payment of income taxes by certain individuals who receive life insurance policies from their employers.

Although not a cent of the money is received by the employe and the proceeds are paid to his family after his death, the Kennedy administration wants the amount of the premiums paid by the employer each year to be taxed as income to the worker just the same as if these were paid in the form of wages.

Although no money is handled and no cash benefit of any kind is received by the employe, there is to be a tax on premiums over and above a certain amount of life-insurance protection.

The administration wanted to fix the exempted amount of the policy at $5,000, but members of Congress are balking and want to set the limit of exemption at a much higher figure.

The principle involved, however, is what will provoke widespread uneasiness concerning all the benefits now given by the employer to the employe which are not in the form of cash.

THUS, HERE ARE some of the items on which many individuals are not making out a complete return and are presumably delinquent on what they really owe the Treasury:

1. All seniority rights in employment or lay-offs — recognized and granted by an employer whether or not at the behest of a union — are taxable unless Congress specifically exempts them. For this is a form of protection like life insurance — a system of job insurance covering certain industries.

2. The checking off of labor-union dues each week is a service for employes, and a proportionate share of the cost would be taxable income to each employe unless exempted by Congress. The same would apply to authorized deductions for charitable contributions or purchase of government bonds.

3. Luncheons provided by an employer at the factory on in the office, and any facilities for the eating of the lunches employes bring, constitute benefits on which the individual owes taxes unless Congress now exempts them by law.

4. Parking facilities, involving the outlay of large sums of money each week, are provided by many employers. The amount, when divided among the employes using the parking lot, constitutes income to the employe. Since Congress has not passed a law exempting such income, the workers using the facilities are really obligated to ascertain the sums due and include them in gross income.

5. The services of secretaries or stenographers in handling personal correspondence for executives as part of their jobs can be calculated, and the cost of the time attributable to work done for individual executives can legally be taxed as a form of income paid by the employer to these executives.

6. Gifts made by employers at Christmas time are not gifts in a legal sense. Unless all of these are specifically exempted by law, employes will have to find out the cost of such gifts and add this to their gross income as a part of their wages.

IT SO HAPPENS that the proceeds of life insurance policies, whether carried by an employer's payment of premium or by the employe himself, are included also as a part of the estate of the deceased and are subject to taxation again if the estate exceeds a certain amount.

So the government even now has a means of taxing life insurance policies, but has not until a few weeks ago considered the imposition of an income tax payment on the premium money paid by the employer on the basis that this has to be considered as a part of an employes income.

One argument used by the Treasury's experts to justify what they are doing is that the self-employed have no such advantage. The number of self-employed to have an exemption for life insurance premiums up to the amounts left untaxed in the case of those persons who are not self-employed.

Pope

Clemente Cardinal Micara, the Pope's vicar for the city of Rome, came out weeping from the papal apartment.

The Pope had regained consciousness earlier, after hours in a coma.

A Vatican announcement said his pain had eased, but still continued. It said he was dozing, breathing regularly, but had lost consciousness again.

He was being given oxygen.

The Pope's confessor was summoned to his bedside, the announcement said. It was made by Archbishop Antonio Samore, secretary of the Vatican Congregation for Extraordinary Affairs.

"The Rt. Rev. Giuseppe Cavagna, his confessor, is at the bedside," the announcement said. "The Pope's brothers are alternating in prayer."

Vatican Radio said that several cardinals and substitutes—monsignori who hold high positions within the major Vatican congregations—were with the Pope.

"The Holy Father's serenity and the constancy with which his thoughts have been focused on God, his repetition of the invocation 'Jesus, Jesus' have touched all hearts," the radio said.

"He is suffering, but lovingly, as he himself said."

Vatican Radio told of the crowd growing in St. Peter's Square, with thousands of faces turned upward toward the Pope's bedroom window.

"They are moved," the radio said, "by the strong demonstration of piety and faith which the Holy Father has given during the course of his suffering."

Only the stout heart of this son of a peasant had brought him from a deep, four-hour coma early today. He had amazed his doctors by sitting up in bed.

The Vatican said the Pope kissed a Crucifix and blessed his three brothers and a sister keeping the death watch by his bed. Later he sipped coffee from a cup he held himself.

Although brought to the brink of death, the Pope recognized his family and prelates around him, the Vatican said.

The Vatican announcement warned the world's half billion Roman Catholics not to cherish "any illusions." It said the Pope still lay near death.

A communique read in the Vatican press room at 7:45 a.m. said the Pope was being given oxygen again. It said he was dozing and that his pains had eased somewhat but still continued.

Shortly after, two of the three doctors attending the Pope left his apartment. This indicated they felt it was safe to step away from his bedside.

For hours the Vatican Radio had remained on the air saying the Pope was passing away and death was imminent. It broadcast bulletins on his condition every 15 minutes.

Then at 5:30 a.m. the radio, announcing it felt the immediate urgency had passed, went off the air.

At the Vatican and in churches around the world, Roman Catholics did not relax their prayers. Prelate after prelate said Mass in the studio outside the Pope's bedroom.

Hundreds knelt through the night in St. Peter's Square below the Pope's window. There had been thousands there Friday evening, but most had gone home without expecting the Pope to survive the night. Once more the crowds swelled as the sun came up.

Vatican communiques warned that the Pope's condition remained grave. They added that his doctors felt that such a recovery of senses was not rare in cases of peritonitis, or inflammation of the abdomen.

Papal physicians blamed the sudden onslaught on peritonitis, on top of the Pope's stomach condition, for Friday's lightning deterioration.

SERVICE ABOVE SELF-INTEREST
MOST OF US regard with suspicion the high pressure technique of sales people who have been tutored to believe that any approach is permissible — even outright deceit if the ultimate issue is a sale. We believe that service to the buyer is the basis of all successful selling. We always give our patrons honest counsel on Memorial problems. We try to meet a need with unselfish service, and by building customer confidence which is the guardian of our good reputation. We invite you to visit our showrooms, which are always newly stocked and we assure you of economy at any price you elect to pay. If you have neglected a Memorial project, we will gladly assist you in selecting a Monument.

SERVICE ABOVE SELF-INTEREST
MOST OF US regard with suspicion the high pressure technique of sales people who have been tutored to believe that any approach is permissible — even outright deceit if the ultimate issue is a sale. We believe that service to the buyer is the basis of all successful selling. We always give our patrons honest counsel on Memorial problems. We try to meet a need with unselfish service, and by building customer confidence which is the guardian of our good reputation. We invite you to visit our showrooms, which are always newly stocked and we assure you of economy at any price you elect to pay. If you have neglected a Memorial project, we will gladly assist you in selecting a Monument.

Want a pink frosting for a small-fry party cake? Add enough maraschino cherry juice to confectioners sugar to make spreading consistency. Add a garnish of the cherries (well dried so they won't "run") and be sure there's a whole cherry for every young one present!!

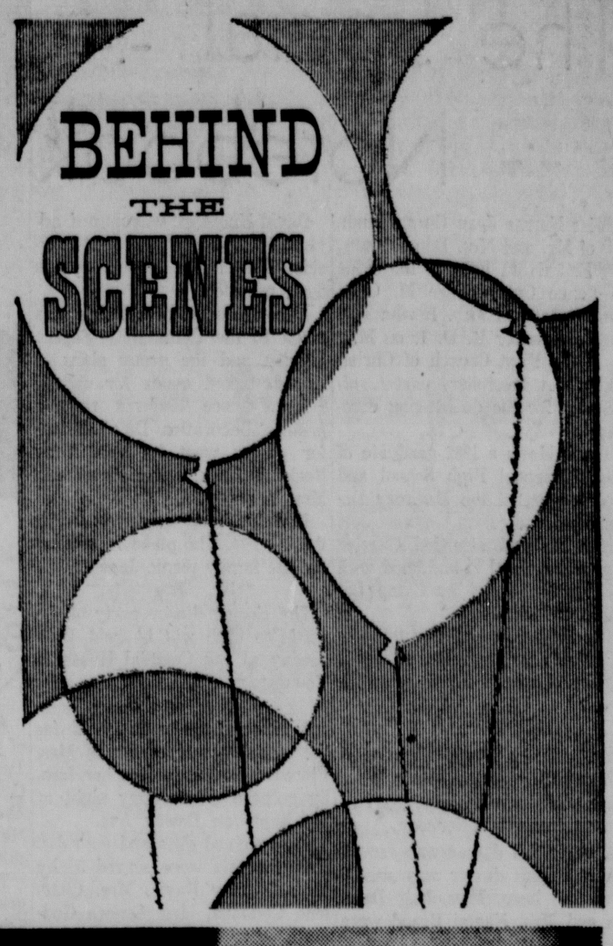
BEHIND THE SCENES



Bim is a clown—that is his business. He can always do the wrong thing at the right time.

But Bim is no fool. Out of the circus ring he always tries to do the right thing at the right time. Those winter Sundays in Florida, before the show goes on the road, you might sit next to Bim in church, and never know he is a clown.

And even though on the road, when Sunday is moving day, Bim gets out his old worn Bible and his teacher's guide, and with his own kids, and with all the other "show" kids gathered 'round him, there is Sunday School on the circus train.

You see, Bim is a Christian, living his faith through all the complications of a strange occupation. He is not a mask—he is Bim. He is the churchman of a circus train—the Sunday School teacher of show business. He knows when to put fun and frolic aside, and turn to the Truth by which we live!

The Church Invites you and your family to worship next Sunday and every Sunday.

Bim is a clown—that is his business. He can always do the wrong thing at the right time.

But Bim is no fool. Out of the circus ring he always tries to do the right thing at the right time. Those winter Sundays in Florida, before the show goes on the road, you might sit next to Bim in church, and never know he is a clown.

And even though on the road, when Sunday is moving day, Bim gets out his old worn Bible and his teacher's guide, and with his own kids, and with all the other "show" kids gathered 'round him, there is Sunday School on the circus train.

You see, Bim is a Christian, living his faith through all the complications of a strange occupation. He is not a mask—he is Bim. He is the churchman of a circus train—the Sunday School teacher of show business. He knows when to put fun and frolic aside, and turn to the Truth by which we live!

The Church Invites you and your family to worship next Sunday and every Sunday.

Johnny needs no medal. The very thought of receiving one would embarrass him. But, based on sheer accomplishment, who, more than he, deserves recognition?

You see, Johnny is a newspaperboy. By the skillful management of his leisure time and by directing his excess energy through constructive channels, he has developed his own business. He serves 45 regular customers. He has not had a service error in months. His "books" are always in order. He has learned the value of politeness and punctuality. He has developed poise, patience, and self-reliance. In short, he has become a good, solid citizen at an early age.

Musial's Pop Up Nips Giants; Pirates And Redlegs Win

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Stan Musial has batted in 1,921 runs. And No. 1,921 might rank as the oddest of The Man's career.

Musial got it Friday night with an infield pop up that went for an out but produced a sweet victory for St. Louis' fast-climbing Cardinals. Curt Flood scored on the weird play, giving the Cards a 6-5 triumph over front-running San Francisco that boosted them into second place in the National League.

Musial came up in the last of the ninth inning with the bases loaded and none out, and the game tied at 5-5. He hit the pop up and was declared out under the infield fly rule since the umpire judged the ball could be caught by an infielder, although it fell among four Giants.

The Cards won their fourth straight and moved to within two lengths of the Giants.

Cincinnati dropped Los Angeles to third, one-half game behind St. Louis, by clipping the Dodgers 7-4.

Also in the NL — Don Schwall's four-hit pitching and Jerry Lynch's two-run homer carried Pittsburgh over the New York Mets 2-0; air-tight relief work by Lindy McDaniel preserved the Chicago Cubs' 2-1 victory over Philadelphia, and the Houston Colts beat Milwaukee 3-2 with two unearned runs behind Ken Johnson's four-hitter.

Vada Pinson, Bob Skinner, Leo Cardenas and Don Pavletich shared batting honors for the Reds as right-hander Jim Maloney won his seventh against two losses.

Pinson homered and singled, Skinner got three hits, Cardenas knocked in two runs with singles, and Pavletich poked a bases-loaded single in the three-run fifth inning that gave the Reds a 6-3 lead.

Schwall made his record 3-2 and posted his second shutout, allowing the Mets only four singles. Carl Willey checked the Pirates on two hits before Lynch rapped his homer in the seventh following a walk to Bill Mazeroski.

McDaniel replaced winner Bob Buhl with the bases full and one out in the eighth inning of the Cubs-Phillies squeaker, stopped that threat cold, and blanked the Phils in the ninth. Lou Brock's double in the third and Ron Santo's single in the fourth drove in the Cub runs off Chris Short.

The Colts netted only two singles against Bob Shaw and were held hitless by Milwaukee relievers Tony Cloninger and Ron Piche, but edged the Braves with the two unearned runs. Shaw's error helped Houston to a run in the first and the Colts made it 3-0 in the fourth on a two-run single by John Bateman.

Hank Aaron belted his 16th homer in the sixth after a single by Lee Maye, accounting for Milwaukee's run production.

Angels Trip Orioles; Yanks Blank Tribe, Tie For Lead

Twins' String Broken Up By Tigers' 3-1

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Nobody's about to fill Bo Belinsky's brogans, but by a strange quirk of fate Dan Osinski may wind up taking his place.

Osinski, involved in the controversial trade in which Belinsky was ticketed for a train ride to Kansas City, combined with rookie Charley Dees and led the Los Angeles Angels to a 7-4 victory over Baltimore Friday night.

A 29-year-old right-hander, Osinski was sold by the A's to the Angels last year. In return, Los Angeles was supposed to hand over Belinsky at the end of the season, but Commissioner Ford Frick vetoed the move because of its irregular procedure.

Osinski, however, remained an Angel. And now that Bo's been dropped, he's been thrust into the starting rotation. The victory against the Angels was Osinski's first in the majors as a starter.

Dees, brought up from Hawaii the day Belinsky was sent down, supplied the punch with three hits, including a homer in the fifth inning that proved decisive. The defeat dropped the Orioles into a tie with New York for the American League lead.

The Yankees closed the gap by whipping Cleveland 4-0 behind Whitey Ford's three-hitter on a pitchers' night.

Jim Bunning checked Minnesota on seven hits for a 3-1 Detroit victory that ended the Twins' 10-game victory string, the third-place Chicago White Sox blanked Boston 6-0 on John Buzhardt's three-hitter and Orlando Pena allowed only five hits and hit a grand slam homer in Kansas City's 9-3 walloping of Washington.

Ford didn't need much support but he got it all from two swings as both Tom Tresh and Elston Howard connected for two-run homers off Indians' starter Jim Grant. Singles by Jerry Kindall in the third, Joe Azcue in the eighth and Vic Davalillo in the ninth were the only hits off Ford, now 6-3.

Bunning, dealing the Twins only their second defeat in 14 games, had a shutout going until Earl Battey homered in the ninth. The Tigers put it away against Jim Perry with three runs in the fourth. Gus Triandos' bases-loaded singles scored two and Rocky Colavito's sacrifice fly the other.

Buzhardt brought his record to 5-2 for the White Sox. Floyd Robinson and Mike Hershberger each singled home a run in the first two innings before Chicago built its bulge to 5-0 with a three-run third inning spurt that knocked out Red Sox starter Gene Conley.

Pena, 5-5, hit his grand slam in a six-run fifth inning uprising that put the A's ahead to stay. Ed Charles and George Alusik also homered for Kansas City, while Larry Osborne, Don Lock and Jim King connected for the Senators, who lost their 18th game in 20 starts.

T.S.&T., Rogers Win Decisions In Minor Loop Play

Taylor, Smith & Taylor and Roger's Drive-In won split decisions in Little Minor League games Friday.

Rogers, leader in the American Division with a 3-0 record, edged Pusateri's, 7-5, behind Carl Gilbert.

Ron Thomas of Rogers smashed his fourth homer in three games and two other hits to spark his team's six-hit attack. Kyle had two hits for the losers.

T. S. & T. won over Potters Savings & Loan Co., 13-12. Banfield and J. Blankenship was the battery for the winners.

In another game, First National Bank rolled over Tri - State, 13-2, with Jimmy Jones hurling a one-hitter and fanning 15 batters. Natalina was the loser. First National had seven hits.

Newell Boosters Set Year's Final Meeting

The Newell Boosters Club will meet Monday night at 7:30 in Wells High School, with year-end financial reports to be presented by Paul Dunlevy, financial secretary. Joe Gibas is president. The meeting will be the final one until the fall.

DON CLENDENON (17) of the Pirates is erased on tag by Mets' catcher Choochoo Colemen during rundown off this base in the 7th inning of Friday night's game at the Polo Grounds. The Pirates won, 2-0, on Jerry Lynch's 2-run homer. (UPI Telephoto)

Travelers, Burbick's Win In Little League

Travelers Hotel, although getting only four hits, came through with a 5-1 victory over American Division leader Golden Star in Little League action Friday.

Ricki Bright pitched the victory, fanning eight Golden Star batters. Gary Klembara, with five strikeouts, was the loser.

Travelers scored once in the first inning and added four more in the fourth. Golden Star's lone tally came in the sixth. Simms had a double for the winners, and Massey had two hits for the Dairymen.

In another game, Burbick's dropped the Medics, 9-7, in a high-scoring game. Diddle of Burbick's allowed only six hits, fanned eight, and walked six. Parfitt was the loser.

For the winners, Berhar homered, Dugan and Cornell doubled and singled, and Mike McKinnon tripled. Rogers had a double and single, and Cochran a double for the losers.

Defending King Seen British Golf Favorite

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) —American Walker Cupper Ed Updegraff warned the field of 250 of the world's best amateur golfers today that defending champion Richard Davies is the man to beat in next week's British championship.

"He is the most underrated golfer on this course at the moment," the Tucson, Ariz., doctor said.

Updegraff played seven rounds here this week in a par-equaling average of 72 shots and has attracted considerable attention. But he contended that his 32-year-old teammate from Pasadena, Calif., is the real target for the ambitious.

Davies won at Hoylake last year, but somehow left the impression that he was less than a classic stylist.

"He's a far better player now," Updegraff said. "He has changed his grip and he is a hell of a putter."

Davies and Updegraff, plus six other members of the U.S. Walker Cup team which beat the British last week at Turnberry, are an across-the-board group of favorites to capture the British amateur.

The big field got its last practice dash at the 6,936-yard, par-72 Old Course today. It is closed by tradition on Sundays.

The marathon six-day championship opens Monday morning with U.S. amateur king Labron Harris of Stillwater, Okla., teeing off against Paul Coste, an American who is principal of the U.S. Air Force school at Chateauroux, France.

Doubleday Field at West Point is named after Maj. Gen. Abner Doubleday, Army class of 1842.

Hall of Litten's stopped the Dairymen on a six - hitter and banged out four hits in five trips to the plate — a homer, double and two singles which accounted for three runs batted in.

The triumph, highlighted by a six-run burst in the sixth inning, advanced Litten's into a tie for first place in the league with Burbick's. Each has won two straight. The Dairymen dropped to the cellar with an 0-2 record.

Rightfielder Woods of Litten's slammed two doubles and drove in a pair of runs in his team's 13-hit attack. D. Stoddard and Finley also doubled.

Natalina started for Golden Star and gave up six runs on eight hits in six innings. Myler followed in relief and was charged with three runs on five hits in one inning, but Natalina got the loss. Natalina showed three hits in four trips, including a home run.

Back With Cleveland

Wynn Again Eyes 300th Triumph

CLEVELAND (AP) — Early Wynn isn't returning to baseball with the Cleveland Indians at age 43 just to gain his 300th lifetime pitching triumph.

He really believes his right arm has a couple of seasons left yet. But it's no secret he badly wants that elusive victory that would put him in company with 13 other great pitchers.

"I feel I'm going back home," said Wynn from his residence in Venice, Fla. soon after Cleveland General Manager Gabe Paul said Friday the Indians had signed the burly hurler. "I've always been fond of that town."

Wynn pitched nine seasons for Cleveland and gained 163 of his 299 triumphs for the Indians. He had four 20-game seasons with Cleveland as a member of the Tribe's great pitching corps of Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia and Wynn in the early 1950s.

Wynn was traded to Chicago in 1958 and bounced back from two losing campaigns to win 22 games for the White Sox as they won the American League pennant in 1959. He pitched seven seasons with Washington starting in 1941.

When will Wynn be ready to try for No. 300? It got away from him three times in the late stages of the 1962 season before the White Sox gave him his unconditional release.

"The legs are all right, but it will take a couple of weeks at least to get the arm ready," Wynn explained. "It's up to Birdie (Tebbetts) when I pitch."

Jones Pockets $148,581 As Winner Of '500' Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Parnelli Jones leaves for New York today holding the winner's share of a record 500-mile race purse and a one-punch decision over contender Eddie Sachs.

Jones, a 29-year-old charger from Torrance, Calif., picked up the big check at the annual victory dinner Friday night. He and Sachs, 36, Detroit, had tangled earlier at a motel with an exchange of "liar" epithets in a controversy over oil spilled during the race Thursday.

There was a lot of talk about oil left on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway asphalt, with Sachs contending that oil from Jones' car caused him to spin out of the race. But no formal protest was filed.

The total purse of $493,530.60 and the first place payoff of $148,581 to Jones and car owner J.C. Agajanian both set records. Drivers work on percentage, usually 40 per cent.

The spilled-oil controversy had been going on for nearly 24 hours when Jones and Sachs started talking near a motel bar and Sachs brought it up again. Witnesses said each man called the other a liar and Jones said, "you call me a a lair again and I'll bust you right in the mouth."

Sachs replied, "All right, you're a liar."

Jones landed one punch to the face and the two wrestled to the floor before spectators separated them. Sachs' mouth was puffed up as he arose.

Cooper Fires 6 Up To Win Golf Honors

Musial's Pop Up Nips Giants; Pirates And Redlegs Win

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Stan Musial has batted in 1,921 runs. And No. 1,921 might rank as the oddest of The Man's career.

Musial got it Friday night with an infield pop up that went for an out but produced a sweet victory for St. Louis' fast-climbing Cardinals. Curt Flood scored on the weird play, giving the Cards a 6-5 triumph over front-running San Francisco that boosted them into second place in the National League.

Musial came up in the last of the ninth inning with the bases loaded and none out, and the game tied at 5-5. He hit the pop up and was declared out under the infield fly rule since the umpire judged the ball could be caught by an infielder, although it fell among four Giants.

The Cards won their fourth straight and moved to within two lengths of the Giants.

Cincinnati dropped Los Angeles to third, one-half game behind St. Louis, by clipping the Dodgers 7-4.

Also in the NL — Don Schwall's four-hit pitching and Jerry Lynch's two-run homer carried Pittsburgh over the New York Mets 2-0; air-tight relief work by Lindy McDaniel preserved the Chicago Cubs' 2-1 victory over Philadelphia, and the Houston Colts beat Milwaukee 3-2 with two unearned runs behind Ken Johnson's four-hitter.

Vada Pinson, Bob Skinner, Leo Cardenas and Don Pavletich shared batting honors for the Reds as right-hander Jim Maloney won his seventh against two losses.

Pinson homered and singled, Skinner got three hits, Cardenas knocked in two runs with singles, and Pavletich poked a bases-loaded single in the three-run fifth inning that gave the Reds a 6-3 lead.

Schwall made his record 3-2 and posted his second shutout, allowing the Mets only four singles. Carl Willey checked the Pirates on two hits before Lynch rapped his homer in the seventh following a walk to Bill Mazeroski.

McDaniel replaced winner Bob Buhl with the bases full and one out in the eighth inning of the Cubs-Phillies squeaker, stopped that threat cold, and blanked the Phils in the ninth. Lou Brock's double in the third and Ron Santo's single in the fourth drove in the Cub runs off Chris Short.

The Colts netted only two singles against Bob Shaw and were held hitless by Milwaukee relievers Tony Cloninger and Ron Piche, but edged the Braves with the two unearned runs. Shaw's error helped Houston to a run in the first and the Colts made it 3-0 in the fourth on a two-run single by John Bateman.

Hank Aaron belted his 16th homer in the sixth after a single by Lee Maye, accounting for Milwaukee's run production.

Angels Trip Orioles; Yanks Blank Tribe, Tie For Lead

Twins' String Broken Up By Tigers' 3-1

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Nobody's about to fill Bo Belinsky's brogans, but by a strange quirk of fate Dan Osinski may wind up taking his place.

Osinski, involved in the controversial trade in which Belinsky was ticketed for a train ride to Kansas City, combined with rookie Charley Dees and led the Los Angeles Angels to a 7-4 victory over Baltimore Friday night.

A 29-year-old right-hander, Osinski was sold by the A's to the Angels last year. In return, Los Angeles was supposed to hand over Belinsky at the end of the season, but Commissioner Ford Frick vetoed the move because of its irregular procedure.

Osinski, however, remained an Angel. And now that Bo's been dropped, he's been thrust into the starting rotation. The victory against the Angels was Osinski's first in the majors as a starter.

Dees, brought up from Hawaii the day Belinsky was sent down, supplied the punch with three hits, including a homer in the fifth inning that proved decisive. The defeat dropped the Orioles into a tie with New York for the American League lead.

The Yankees closed the gap by whipping Cleveland 4-0 behind Whitey Ford's three-hitter on a pitchers' night.

Jim Bunning checked Minnesota on seven hits for a 3-1 Detroit victory that ended the Twins' 10-game victory string, the third-place Chicago White Sox blanked Boston 6-0 on John Buzhardt's three-hitter and Orlando Pena allowed only five hits and hit a grand slam homer in Kansas City's 9-3 walloping of Washington.

Ford didn't need much support but he got it all from two swings as both Tom Tresh and Elston Howard connected for two-run homers off Indians' starter Jim Grant. Singles by Jerry Kindall in the third, Joe Azcue in the eighth and Vic Davalillo in the ninth were the only hits off Ford, now 6-3.

Bunning, dealing the Twins only their second defeat in 14 games, had a shutout going until Earl Battey homered in the ninth. The Tigers put it away against Jim Perry with three runs in the fourth. Gus Triandos' bases-loaded singles scored two and Rocky Colavito's sacrifice fly the other.

Buzhardt brought his record to 5-2 for the White Sox. Floyd Robinson and Mike Hershberger each singled home a run in the first two innings before Chicago built its bulge to 5-0 with a three-run third inning spurt that knocked out Red Sox starter Gene Conley.

Pena, 5-5, hit his grand slam in a six-run fifth inning uprising that put the A's ahead to stay. Ed Charles and George Alusik also homered for Kansas City, while Larry Osborne, Don Lock and Jim King connected for the Senators, who lost their 18th game in 20 starts.

T.S.&T., Rogers Win Decisions In Minor Loop Play

Taylor, Smith & Taylor and Roger's Drive-In won split decisions in Little Minor League games Friday.

Rogers, leader in the American Division with a 3-0 record, edged Pusateri's, 7-5, behind Carl Gilbert.

Ron Thomas of Rogers smashed his fourth homer in three games and two other hits to spark his team's six-hit attack. Kyle had two hits for the losers.

T. S. & T. won over Potters Savings & Loan Co., 13-12. Banfield and J. Blankenship was the battery for the winners.

In another game, First National Bank rolled over Tri - State, 13-2, with Jimmy Jones hurling a one-hitter and fanning 15 batters. Natalina was the loser. First National had seven hits.

The Newell Boosters Club will meet Monday night at 7:30 in Wells High School, with year-end financial reports to be presented by Paul Dunlevy, financial secretary. Joe Gibas is president. The meeting will be the final one until the fall.

DON CLENDENON (17) of the Pirates is erased on tag by Mets' catcher Choochoo Colemen during rundown off this base in the 7th inning of Friday night's game at the Polo Grounds. The Pirates won, 2-0, on Jerry Lynch's 2-run homer. (UPI Telephoto)

Travelers, Burbick's Win In Little League

Travelers Hotel, although getting only four hits, came through with a 5-1 victory over American Division leader Golden Star in Little League action Friday.

Ricki Bright pitched the victory, fanning eight Golden Star batters. Gary Klembara, with five strikeouts, was the loser.

Travelers scored once in the first inning and added four more in the fourth. Golden Star's lone tally came in the sixth. Simms had a double for the winners, and Massey had two hits for the Dairymen.

In another game, Burbick's dropped the Medics, 9-7, in a high-scoring game. Diddle of Burbick's allowed only six hits, fanned eight, and walked six. Parfitt was the loser.

For the winners, Berhar homered, Dugan and Cornell doubled and singled, and Mike McKinnon tripled. Rogers had a double and single, and Cochran a double for the losers.

Defending King Seen British Golf Favorite

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) —American Walker Cupper Ed Updegraff warned the field of 250 of the world's best amateur golfers today that defending champion Richard Davies is the man to beat in next week's British championship.

"He is the most underrated golfer on this course at the moment," the Tucson, Ariz., doctor said.

Updegraff played seven rounds here this week in a par-equaling average of 72 shots and has attracted considerable attention. But he contended that his 32-year-old teammate from Pasadena, Calif., is the real target for the ambitious.

Davies won at Hoylake last year, but somehow left the impression that he was less than a classic stylist.

"He's a far better player now," Updegraff said. "He has changed his grip and he is a hell of a putter."

Davies and Updegraff, plus six other members of the U.S. Walker Cup team which beat the British last week at Turnberry, are an across-the-board group of favorites to capture the British amateur.

The big field got its last practice dash at the 6,936-yard, par-72 Old Course today. It is closed by tradition on Sundays.

The marathon six-day championship opens Monday morning with U.S. amateur king Labron Harris of Stillwater, Okla., teeing off against Paul Coste, an American who is principal of the U.S. Air Force school at Chateauroux, France.

Doubleday Field at West Point is named after Maj. Gen. Abner Doubleday, Army class of 1842.

Wynn Again Eyes 300th Triumph

CLEVELAND (AP) — Early Wynn isn't returning to baseball with the Cleveland Indians at age 43 just to gain his 300th lifetime pitching triumph.

He really believes his right arm has a couple of seasons left yet. But it's no secret he badly wants that elusive victory that would put him in company with 13 other great pitchers.

"I feel I'm going back home," said Wynn from his residence in Venice, Fla. soon after Cleveland General Manager Gabe Paul said Friday the Indians had signed the burly hurler. "I've always been fond of that town."

Wynn pitched nine seasons for Cleveland and gained 163 of his 299 triumphs for the Indians. He had four 20-game seasons with Cleveland as a member of the Tribe's great pitching corps of Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia and Wynn in the early 1950s.

Wynn was traded to Chicago in 1958 and bounced back from two losing campaigns to win 22 games for the White Sox as they won the American League pennant in 1959. He pitched seven seasons with Washington starting in 1941.

When will Wynn be ready to try for No. 300? It got away from him three times in the late stages of the 1962 season before the White Sox gave him his unconditional release.

"The legs are all right, but it will take a couple of weeks at least to get the arm ready," Wynn explained. "It's up to Birdie (Tebbetts) when I pitch."

Jones Pockets $148,581 As Winner Of '500' Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Parnelli Jones leaves for New York today holding the winner's share of a record 500-mile race purse and a one-punch decision over contender Eddie Sachs.

Jones, a 29-year-old charger from Torrance, Calif., picked up the big check at the annual victory dinner Friday night. He and Sachs, 36, Detroit, had tangled earlier at a motel with an exchange of "liar" epithets in a controversy over oil spilled during the race Thursday.

There was a lot of talk about oil left on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway asphalt, with Sachs contending that oil from Jones' car caused him to spin out of the race. But no formal protest was filed.

The total purse of $493,530.60 and the first place payoff of $148,581 to Jones and car owner J.C. Agajanian both set records. Drivers work on percentage, usually 40 per cent.

The spilled-oil controversy had been going on for nearly 24 hours when Jones and Sachs started talking near a motel bar and Sachs brought it up again. Witnesses said each man called the other a liar and Jones said, "you call me a a lair again and I'll bust you right in the mouth."

Sachs replied, "All right, you're a liar."

Jones landed one punch to the face and the two wrestled to the floor before spectators separated them. Sachs' mouth was puffed up as he arose.

Johnson Solid Favorite To Retain Title

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The world light heavyweight crown will be on the line tonight and champion Harold Johnson is a solid favorite to retain it in a 15-round fight with Willie Pastrano.

The nationally televised engagement—ABC at 10 p.m., EDT—is set for the Las Vegas Convention Center.

Among the 5,500 patrons on hand will be heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, whose title Johnson might seek if he gets by the fast, fancy tactics of Willie the Wisp, from North Miami Beach, Fla.

Also slated to be at ringside is Mauro Mina of Peru, the No. 1 contender in the 175-pound division. The Peruvian was offered a shot at Johnson but bowed out, claiming an arm injury.

Johnson, from Philadelphia, at 34 is still a powerful puncher, though admittedly not as fast with his hands as in younger years.

He has stopped 32 opponents in his career of 81 matches and has not lost a bout since 1955.

Pastrano, 28, noted for his hit-and-run style, after 13 years of ring warfare is getting his first crack at a world championship.

He started boxing in his native New Orleans and has had his share of success and disappointment. More important to him, and a problem for Johnson, Pastrano has never been knocked off his feet in 83 engagements.

Reds Lose Protest Of Wednesday's Game

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds have lost their protest of Wednesday night's game against San Francisco.

Reds Manager Fred Hutchinson lodged the protest, contending Marichal had been allowed an illegal number of warmups.

Giles ruled that the umpires were given discretion in the matter, and Crawford correctly judged the rhubarb had delayed the game extra long.

Johnson Solid Favorite To Retain Title

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The world light heavyweight crown will be on the line tonight and champion Harold Johnson is a solid favorite to retain it in a 15-round fight with Willie Pastrano.

The nationally televised engagement—ABC at 10 p.m., EDT—is set for the Las Vegas Convention Center.

Among the 5,500 patrons on hand will be heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, whose title Johnson might seek if he gets by the fast, fancy tactics of Willie the Wisp, from North Miami Beach, Fla.

Also slated to be at ringside is Mauro Mina of Peru, the No. 1 contender in the 175-pound division. The Peruvian was offered a shot at Johnson but bowed out, claiming an arm injury.

Johnson, from Philadelphia, at 34 is still a powerful puncher, though admittedly not as fast with his hands as in younger years.

He has stopped 32 opponents in his career of 81 matches and has not lost a bout since 1955.

Pastrano, 28, noted for his hit-and-run style, after 13 years of ring warfare is getting his first crack at a world championship.

He started boxing in his native New Orleans and has had his share of success and disappointment. More important to him, and a problem for Johnson, Pastrano has never been knocked off his feet in 83 engagements.

Cannon Hurls 3-Hitter In Methodist Victory

Jerry Cannon, probably the most consistent pitcher in the YMCA Church Softball League, stopped First Free Methodist on a three-hitter and won his second straight game for Calvary Methodist Friday at the Beaver Local field.

The defending league champs gained a 4-1 victory. Cannon has yielded only two runs this season, both unearned.

Jim Dickey drove in two runs for Calvary. He got two hits, along with Cannon and Al McGaffick. Bill Wolfe was the losing pitcher.

Reds Lose Protest Of Wednesday's Game

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds have lost their protest of Wednesday night's game against San Francisco.

President Warren Giles of the National League rejected the protest Friday, saying umpire Shag Crawford rightly allowed Giants pitcher Juan Marichal several extra warmup pitches after the lengthy rhubarb in the fourth inning.

Reds Manager Fred Hutchinson lodged the protest, contending Marichal had been allowed an illegal number of warmups.

Giles ruled that the umpires were given discretion in the matter, and Crawford correctly judged the rhubarb had delayed the game extra long.

WVU's Eliminated From NCAA Tourney

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP) — Florida State University and Wake Forest were to meet here today in the finals of the District 3, NCAA baseball playoffs.

Wake Forest moved into the finals last night by eliminating Southern Conference champion West Virginia, 12-8. It was the second time West Virginia had lost to Wake Forest in the playoffs.

Ex-Browns To Coach

CHICAGO (AP) — Four former Cleveland Browns stars will make up two-thirds of the coaching staff for the College All-Stars in their game against Green Bay's National Football League champions here Aug. 2. The sponsoring Chicago Tribune announced that Otto Graham again will be head man and his aides will include Tommy O'Connell, Mike Scarry and Dante Lavelli.

Center Roads Aired

LISBON — Center Township trustees discussed their summer road program, heard a salesman explain new - type loaders and paid bills totaling $2,100 at a meeting Friday evening in their offices in the Farmers Bank Building.

Canton South Coach Named Cincy U. Aide

CINCINNATI (AP)—Don Nehlen, head football coach at Canton South High School for the past four seasons, has been appointed an assistant football coach at the University of Cincinnati.

Athletic Director George Smith said today Nehlen will work mostly with the defensive backs. His appointment became effective July 1.

Nehlen, 27, was a baseball and football star at Bowling Green State University, where he graduated in 1958. He coached the offensive backfield at Mansfield before moving back to his native Canton in 1959. His Canton teams had a 22-14-2 mark for four seasons.

2 Men Nail Robber, But Skip The Thanks

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Two men captured a robber on a crowded downtown Pittsburgh street Friday, then slipped quietly away without waiting for thanks, police said.

Officers said the unidentified men collared Gerald Winkle, 29, an ex-convict, a few seconds after he pushed a woman tavernkeeper to the sidewalk and dashed off with an envelope containing a $400 bank deposit.

The two men grabbed Winkle and held him while passers-by hailed a policeman who took Winkle into custody.

Building Permits Drop To $24,775

Because no major projects got under way, May building permits issued by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet's office totaled only $24,775, a drop of $164,225 from the $189,000 listed in April.

Fourteen permits were issued last month, but only one was in the five-figure bracket. It went to Frank Lambright to erect a new home on Lang St. estimated to cost $10,000.

IN THE ONLY other sizeable project launched last month, the Potters Construction Co. began repair of fire damage in the Reese Jewelry Store at 106 E. 5th St. The cost was estimated at $8,000. The entire interior of the store was destroyed in a blaze about two months ago.

Two major projects accounted for the big total in the April permits — a $50,000 business building downtown and a new church structure in East End estimated to cost $120,000. Two persons also obtained permits to raze buildings last month.

Here are the other May permits, the persons to whom they were issued, the work authorized and the estimated cost of each job:

Jerry Adkins, to add two rooms to a home at 2207 Michigan Ave., $2,000.

EVELYN SHENKEL, to install siding and remodel a home at 825 North Side Ave., $1,000.

Dr. C. M. Mayberry, to raze a double frame house at 205 W. 5th St., $500.

M. G. Metz, to place a new roof on a porch and pantry of a home at 308 W. 4th St., $200.

Elis Najem, to repair steps on a building on W. 7th St., $60.

Leonard Coursin, to erect a garage on Henry Ave., $200.

Joseph Comfort, to build a porch on a home at 1587 Holliday St., $300.

Wayne Hughes, to remodel a home at 1063 Ambrose Ave., $100.

CHARLES RIPPETH, to add a room to a dwelling at 1077 Pope Ave., $1,200.

Nat McKinnon, to repair a roof and gable on a home at 1138 Ohio Ave., $75.

Bernard Veglia, to add two rooms to a building at 1702 Alpha St., $700.

Jenedean Betteridge, to tear down a building at 1149 Ohio Ave., no estimate.

Eugene Coleman, to remodel a home on Valley View St., $500.

2 Men Nail Robber, But Skip The Thanks

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Two men captured a robber on a crowded downtown Pittsburgh street Friday, then slipped quietly away without waiting for thanks, police said.

Officers said the unidentified men collared Gerald Winkle, 29, an ex-convict, a few seconds after he pushed a woman tavernkeeper to the sidewalk and dashed off with an envelope containing a $400 bank deposit.

The two men grabbed Winkle and held him while passers-by hailed a policeman who took Winkle into custody.

Building Permits Drop To $24,775

Because no major projects got under way, May building permits issued by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet's office totaled only $24,775, a drop of $164,225 from the $189,000 listed in April.

Fourteen permits were issued last month, but only one was in the five-figure bracket. It went to Frank Lambright to erect a new home on Lang St. estimated to cost $10,000.

IN THE ONLY other sizeable project launched last month, the Potters Construction Co. began repair of fire damage in the Reese Jewelry Store at 106 E. 5th St. The cost was estimated at $8,000. The entire interior of the store was destroyed in a blaze about two months ago.

Two major projects accounted for the big total in the April permits — a $50,000 business building downtown and a new church structure in East End estimated to cost $120,000. Two persons also obtained permits to raze buildings last month.

Here are the other May permits, the persons to whom they were issued, the work authorized and the estimated cost of each job:

Jerry Adkins, to add two rooms to a home at 2207 Michigan Ave., $2,000.

EVELYN SHENKEL, to install siding and remodel a home at 825 North Side Ave., $1,000.

Dr. C. M. Mayberry, to raze a double frame house at 205 W. 5th St., $500.

M. G. Metz, to place a new roof on a porch and pantry of a home at 308 W. 4th St., $200.

Elis Najem, to repair steps on a building on W. 7th St., $60.

Leonard Coursin, to erect a garage on Henry Ave., $200.

Joseph Comfort, to build a porch on a home at 1587 Holliday St., $300.

Wayne Hughes, to remodel a home at 1063 Ambrose Ave., $100.

CHARLES RIPPETH, to add a room to a dwelling at 1077 Pope Ave., $1,200.

Nat McKinnon, to repair a roof and gable on a home at 1138 Ohio Ave., $75.

Bernard Veglia, to add two rooms to a building at 1702 Alpha St., $700.

Jenedean Betteridge, to tear down a building at 1149 Ohio Ave., no estimate.

Eugene Coleman, to remodel a home on Valley View St., $500.

Ohio Mental Hospitals Return To Farming

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio mental hospitals are returning to the farming business.

Director Martin A. Janis of the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction has given the green light to get idle hospital farms back into operation.

During the administration of former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle most hospitals were told to stop farming operations because it was felt inmates should not be required to work in the fields. Prison farms, however, continued.

About three weeks ago, following consultations with doctors, Janis said it is his belief that the farms could be utilized as both a financial help to the state and also as a therapeutic aid for inmates.

Some lands went under immediate cultivation but many will have to wait until next spring to get a full growing season.

Only inmates approved by doctors are permitted to do any work and the work must be of beneficial nature to the inmate involved.

During the fiscal year ended last June 30, when the hospital lands were not being cultivated, the total value of the crops was set at $3.58 million. About 17,000 acres were under cultivation last year and Homer B. Gall, farms director, says the total will be about the same this year. It should increase next year when all hospital farms resume operation, he said.

Many of the penal and hospital farms specialize in a product — Orient State Institute raises hogs, Gallipolis State Institute grows apples and Apple Creek State Hospital specializes in cabbage.

Fresh vegetables are shipped in state trucks to other hospitals and farms, who trade their products.

The London Correctional Institution, besides having more than 1,000 acres under cultivation, handles the animal slaughtering and also operates a cannery where excess vegetables are canned for storage and later shipment to state institutions. The reformatory at Mansfield also has a cannery.

Almost all hospitals and prisons have dairy herds which keep the individual facilities supplied with fresh milk the year around. It is estimated that the "state cows" produced 8,754,000 quarts of milk in 1961.

That year, "state chickens" laid 4,369,000 eggs, 126,891 bushels of potatoes were raised and there were 22,444,497 pounds of other vegetables and fruit raised.

No Feeling For Girl, Accused Woman Says

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—"I have no feeling in my heart for the girl. I don't care what becomes of her—even if they cut her up into a million pieces."

Trumbull County Sheriff's Deputy Kenneth Smith quoted Mrs. Richard Carr, who is on trial on charges of mistreating her niece, as saying this when he and Deputy Cpl. William Miller, told her the girl's feet had been frostbitten and she might have to have some toes amputated. The deputies testified in Municipal Court Friday.

The girl, Frances Jean Carr, 19, has testified her aunt and father confined her for long periods, sometimes in a saddlebox, at other times in a metal cabinet, an unheated shed or tied with a rope.

The father, Francis Carr, is to be tried on cruel treatment charges also.

Mrs. Carr, in whose Warren Township home Frances Jean says she was mistreated for five months before her escape, bristled with anger at one point. It came when Miller testified Mrs. Carr had told him her niece had sexually molested the defendant's 4-year-old son.

"You liar," she shouted in the tiny, packed courtroom.

On March 12, the girl was taken in an emaciated condition to Warren General Hospital.

Dr. Earl C. Gay testified parts of two of the girl's toes were removed at the hospital because of gangerene. He said during cross examination the gangrene could have been caused only by cold weather.

The trial resumes Monday.

Prizes Listed For Picnic Of Pottery Union

The International Brotherhood of Operative Potters today listed prizes which will be awarded in the top events at the annual Potters Picnic Saturday, June 15 at Meyers Lake Park in Canton.

A $50 Savings Bond will be awarded as first prize in each of three age groups in the traditional baby show, termed "the largest in Ohio" because it generally attracts a field of 300 or more.

Second prize in each age group will be a $25 Savings Bond, while the third place winners will receive $10 in Savings Stamps.

The baby show will get under way at 1:30 p. m. in the park's dancing pavilion. Youngsters will compete in three age brackets: Up to 1; 1-2, and 2-3. Canton area nurses will act as judges. Every entrant will receive a gift.

The baby show will be followed immediately by a penny scramble for boys and girls in three age groups — 5-7, 8-10 and 11-12. Members of the committee will scatter 2,500 pennies on the pavilion's maple floor for them to pick up.

Third highlight on the formal program is the "junior bathing beauty" contest for children 4-7, inclusive. The first place winner will receive a $50 Savings Bond. The second place prize is a $25 Savings Bond and the third place entrant will be given $10 in Savings Stamps.

Every youngster entered in the contest will receive a gift. The Canton nurses also will judge the "junior bathing beauty" contest.

In another event, the committee will award $10 to the oldest member of the IBOP who registers at the park.

Free coffee will be dispensed at meal times, but none will be placed in glass containers, the committee said. The distribution for lunch will be made between 11:30 a. m. and 1 p. m. The super-time coffee will be handed out from 5 to 6. The coffee also will be served by the cup throughout the day.

The IBOP said charter bus service has been arranged to help take East Liverpool crowds to the park.

Under arrangements with the Inter-City Transit Co., the first bus will leave the Diamond at 9 a. m. and others will depart as they are filled with passengers. The first return trip from Meyers Lake Park will begin at 7 p. m.

5 Autoists Forfeit In Patrol Citations

LISBON — Five motorists forfeited appearance bonds totaling $90 Friday in County Judge James L. MacDonald's court.

Four were on State Highway Patrol citations. They were:

Howard H. Haught, 52, of Leavittsburg, $25 for reckless operation; Wayne J. Herian, 26, of Winona, Elliott I. Ballonoff, 33, and Robert L. Williams, 45, both of Cleveland, $15 each for speeding.

Robert J. Fithian, 27, of Poland forfeited $20 for crossing a yellow line. He was cited by Constable Forrest Young of Franklin Township.

Weirton Prisoner's Sentence Deferred

PITTSBURGH — Federal Judge Louis Rosenberg Friday deferred sentencing Stamatios Kontogiannis, 23, a Greek national charged with illegal entry into the United States.

Kontogiannis, according to government witnesses, deserted a Greek merchant ship on which he was a crew member on June 12, 1962, and a month later married a Weirton girl. The young man has been ordered deported by immigration authorities, but still faces the possibility of a prison term for illegal entry.

Named Auctioneer

LISBON — William J. Engle of East Rochester qualified as an auctioneer Friday before Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard. He posted $1,000 security bond and paid the $5 yearly fee.

Ohio Mental Hospitals Return To Farming

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio mental hospitals are returning to the farming business.

Director Martin A. Janis of the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction has given the green light to get idle hospital farms back into operation.

During the administration of former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle most hospitals were told to stop farming operations because it was felt inmates should not be required to work in the fields. Prison farms, however, continued.

About three weeks ago, following consultations with doctors, Janis said it is his belief that the farms could be utilized as both a financial help to the state and also as a therapeutic aid for inmates.

Some lands went under immediate cultivation but many will have to wait until next spring to get a full growing season.

Only inmates approved by doctors are permitted to do any work and the work must be of beneficial nature to the inmate involved.

During the fiscal year ended last June 30, when the hospital lands were not being cultivated, the total value of the crops was set at $3.58 million. About 17,000 acres were under cultivation last year and Homer B. Gall, farms director, says the total will be about the same this year. It should increase next year when all hospital farms resume operation, he said.

Many of the penal and hospital farms specialize in a product — Orient State Institute raises hogs, Gallipolis State Institute grows apples and Apple Creek State Hospital specializes in cabbage.

Fresh vegetables are shipped in state trucks to other hospitals and farms, who trade their products.

The London Correctional Institution, besides having more than 1,000 acres under cultivation, handles the animal slaughtering and also operates a cannery where excess vegetables are canned for storage and later shipment to state institutions. The reformatory at Mansfield also has a cannery.

Almost all hospitals and prisons have dairy herds which keep the individual facilities supplied with fresh milk the year around. It is estimated that the "state cows" produced 8,754,000 quarts of milk in 1961.

That year, "state chickens" laid 4,369,000 eggs, 126,891 bushels of potatoes were raised and there were 22,444,497 pounds of other vegetables and fruit raised.

No Feeling For Girl, Accused Woman Says

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—"I have no feeling in my heart for the girl. I don't care what becomes of her—even if they cut her up into a million pieces."

Trumbull County Sheriff's Deputy Kenneth Smith quoted Mrs. Richard Carr, who is on trial on charges of mistreating her niece, as saying this when he and Deputy Cpl. William Miller, told her the girl's feet had been frostbitten and she might have to have some toes amputated. The deputies testified in Municipal Court Friday.

The girl, Frances Jean Carr, 19, has testified her aunt and father confined her for long periods, sometimes in a saddlebox, at other times in a metal cabinet, an unheated shed or tied with a rope.

The father, Francis Carr, is to be tried on cruel treatment charges also.

Mrs. Carr, in whose Warren Township home Frances Jean says she was mistreated for five months before her escape, bristled with anger at one point. It came when Miller testified Mrs. Carr had told him her niece had sexually molested the defendant's 4-year-old son.

"You liar," she shouted in the tiny, packed courtroom.

On March 12, the girl was taken in an emaciated condition to Warren General Hospital.

Dr. Earl C. Gay testified parts of two of the girl's toes were removed at the hospital because of gangerene. He said during cross examination the gangrene could have been caused only by cold weather.

The trial resumes Monday.

Prizes Listed For Picnic Of Pottery Union

The International Brotherhood of Operative Potters today listed prizes which will be awarded in the top events at the annual Potters Picnic Saturday, June 15 at Meyers Lake Park in Canton.

A $50 Savings Bond will be awarded as first prize in each of three age groups in the traditional baby show, termed "the largest in Ohio" because it generally attracts a field of 300 or more.

Second prize in each age group will be a $25 Savings Bond, while the third place winners will receive $10 in Savings Stamps.

The baby show will get under way at 1:30 p. m. in the park's dancing pavilion. Youngsters will compete in three age brackets: Up to 1; 1-2, and 2-3. Canton area nurses will act as judges. Every entrant will receive a gift.

The baby show will be followed immediately by a penny scramble for boys and girls in three age groups — 5-7, 8-10 and 11-12. Members of the committee will scatter 2,500 pennies on the pavilion's maple floor for them to pick up.

Third highlight on the formal program is the "junior bathing beauty" contest for children 4-7, inclusive. The first place winner will receive a $50 Savings Bond. The second place prize is a $25 Savings Bond and the third place entrant will be given $10 in Savings Stamps.

Every youngster entered in the contest will receive a gift. The Canton nurses also will judge the "junior bathing beauty" contest.

In another event, the committee will award $10 to the oldest member of the IBOP who registers at the park.

Free coffee will be dispensed at meal times, but none will be placed in glass containers, the committee said. The distribution for lunch will be made between 11:30 a. m. and 1 p. m. The super-time coffee will be handed out from 5 to 6. The coffee also will be served by the cup throughout the day.

The IBOP said charter bus service has been arranged to help take East Liverpool crowds to the park.

Under arrangements with the Inter-City Transit Co., the first bus will leave the Diamond at 9 a. m. and others will depart as they are filled with passengers. The first return trip from Meyers Lake Park will begin at 7 p. m.

5 Autoists Forfeit In Patrol Citations

Four were on State Highway Patrol citations. They were:

Howard H. Haught, 52, of Leavittsburg, $25 for reckless operation; Wayne J. Herian, 26, of Winona, Elliott I. Ballonoff, 33, and Robert L. Williams, 45, both of Cleveland, $15 each for speeding.

Robert J. Fithian, 27, of Poland forfeited $20 for crossing a yellow line. He was cited by Constable Forrest Young of Franklin Township.

Weirton Prisoner's Sentence Deferred

PITTSBURGH — Federal Judge Louis Rosenberg Friday deferred sentencing Stamatios Kontogiannis, 23, a Greek national charged with illegal entry into the United States.

Kontogiannis, according to government witnesses, deserted a Greek merchant ship on which he was a crew member on June 12, 1962, and a month later married a Weirton girl. The young man has been ordered deported by immigration authorities, but still faces the possibility of a prison term for illegal entry.

Named Auctioneer

LISBON — William J. Engle of East Rochester qualified as an auctioneer Friday before Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard. He posted $1,000 security bond and paid the $5 yearly fee.

Junior Editors Quiz on PENDULUMS

QUESTION: What makes a pendulum swing endlessly?

ANSWER: If you look inside a grandfather's clock as Joe is doing in our picture, you will see, besides the swinging pendulum, a weight hanging on a cord. This weight keeps the pendulum swinging, and the steady swing of the pendulum keeps the clock working at an even pace. Long ago, the Italian astronomer Galileo timed the swinging of a lamp which hung on a long cord. He discovered that the swings were perfectly regular. Later the Dutchman Huygens used this principle to construct a pendulum clock. In the clock's works is an "escapement" (see diagram) which holds back the wheels. This is connected so that when the pendulum moves the wheel connected with the weight is allowed to move a little and then is stopped again. This movement gives a "kick" to the pendulum and keeps it swinging. The steady swings of the pendulum hold the mechanism of the clock to a steady pace.

FOR YOU TO DO: Tie a weight to a cord and swing it back and forth. Notice that (unless you swing it all the way around) it is difficult to hurry the weight or slow it down. It tends to a steady movement like the pendulum in a grandfather's clock.

Ten years ago: President Eisenhower submitted to Congress proposals to reorganize the State Department, designed to strengthen the role of the secretary of state in the field of foreign affairs.

Five years ago: The French National Assembly approved Gen. Charles de Gaulle as the new premier after he had demanded full powers to rule by decree for six months.

One year ago: Former President Eisenhower strongly defended his secretary of the treasury, George Humphrey, against charges of mismanagement of the government stockpiling program.

The name of Windsor has been attached to the ruling family of England since it was established by George V in 1917. Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR HELOISE: Ice tea is wonderful on hot days. Here's the way I vary it:

When I make two cups of freshly brewed tea I add two spoons of raspberry or strawberry jam! I stir this well and then pour it over the ice cubes.

I am a wee bit English, and they do not do this in England but I have learned to love it. My little children love it also.

WE ENGLISH.

And did you ever try putting a piece of plain caramel candy in a cup of hot tea, letting it melt and stirring? This takes the place of the sugar and cream. It adds a wee bit of caramel aroma. . . Serve either hot or over ice cubes.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: For those who have picnic tables outside and do not like to use oil cloth but yet hesitate to use their nice tableclothes . . . I bought an odd shower curtain on sale and simply used my pinking shears and snipped off all the edges.

As the cloth was a little bit too long I had about 12 inches left across one end. This I used to line my bathroom shelves. It's absolutely perfect. At least the dirt doesn't show!

M.E. H.

Dear Heloise: A good way to make lots of hamburgers for the crowd is:

Place the meat patties in a baking pan, which has been lined with foil, place another piece of foil over them, put more patties in, place another piece of foil, add more patties and stack them up four deep with a sheet of foil separating each layer.

The heat conducts so well that all of the patties will be cooked through in about 35 minutes in a 350 degree oven.

And did you know that frankfurters and rolls may be done the same way, except it only takes 15 minutes?

JANE WORTHINGTON.

DEAR HELOISE: When hanging T-shirts, I put them on plastic hangers and clip the shirts at the shoulder seam to prevent their blowing off the hangers.

After placing the shirt on the hanger, I grab it by the shoulders —hanger and all—and shake real good. No ironing required, the shirt stretches longways and the neck remains the original size.

MRS. H. C.

DEAR HELOISE: I used to give loaves of stale bread to an old lady whom I thought would use it for dressing but she told me to wrap it in a damp towel and leave it in the refrigerator for a couple of days, then remove the towel and heat the bread in the oven. It is as fresh and crispy as the day it was baked. It only takes a few minutes to heat.

This can also be done with rolls.

OTTAWA.

DEAR HELOISE: For those who buy shelf paper in a roll may I suggest that they put it in an empty wax paper or foil box. It not only keeps it clean but makes it mighty nice for tearing off evenly without getting out the scissors. Real tricky.

ISABEL HONEY.

DEAR HELOISE: For tea stains on the joints of ceramic tile drainboards, we suggest that women use full-strength liquid bleach, holding it on any slope by paper toweling or a rag, for a few minutes—then flushing the area with clean water.

Eiferd Addresses Lions In Sight-Saving Program

A special sight-saving program in which club members ate in subdued light and heard a brief talk by John Eiferd, president of Golden Star Dairy and long a victim of blindness, highlighted the meeting of the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

"I'm considered the biggest faker the insurance company ever had; I tried to make them believe I could see when I couldn't," Eiferd declared.

The insurance firm spent thousands of dollars in investigations and examinations as it refused to believe he was sightless because of his ability to travel around the downtown area alone, Eiferd said.

Insurance investigators watched him closely for 10 years and in the early 1940's made a two-day film depicting his actions and travels. Shown to eye specialists in Canton and Pittsburgh, Eiferd said both declared he was faking blindness but later was convinced following examinations that he was blind.

He commended the club for its work and said thousands of people are able to see better today because of the interest of Lions' organizations throughout the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Hayes of 5th Ave., LaCroft, were guests.

The club aided financially with an operation to remove cataracts from Mrs. Hayes' eyes. Mrs. Hayes, the mother of three, never had seen her children's faces and had been unable to read a newspaper for 15 years. She now has 20-25 vision with glasses, she said, after an operation 15 years ago was unsuccessful.

Eiferd and Mr. and Mrs. Hayes were introduced by Clarence D. Wright, chairman of the sight-saving committee.

Wright explained the club dined by candlelight to illustrate the subdued light in which many people with faulty vision must live.

He commended school nurses and physicians with much of the credit for the success of the program. Howard E. Tice was program chairman.

Members were reminded of the Installation Night dinner June 11 at 6:30 at the Country Club. Richard Martin, first vice president, and Dr. William Sulkes are co-chairmen.

John T. Smith, president, announced the Board of Directors will meet Monday night at the Potters Savings & Loan Co. annex.

Tests Scheduled For CD Trainees

Persons who have completed a six-week "adult self-help" course conducted by the St. Clair Township Civil Defense unit will take tests at the next meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 at the Glenmoor fire station.

Essentially a first-aid course, the training was completed when the last class was held by Mrs. Luella Myers of Calcutta, instructor, at a meeting Tuesday night at the Glenmoor station.

Plans were made for the CD auxiliary police to direct parking at a horse show Sunday at the Tri-State Boot and Saddle Club's grounds on Route 267.

The CD first aid team also will set up a first aid station at the show.

Air Force To Recruit Men With MP Service

T.Sgt. James A. Lee, area Air Force recruiter, said today the Air Force has an immediate need for qualified personnel who last served in the Army or Marine Corps as military policemen.

Prior MP's with two or less dependents may be eligible for assignment to a base of their choice in the Stretegic Air Command.

Sgt. Lee said interested applicants should contact him immediately as this is a limited directed-duty-assignment program. Applicants will not be required to take basic training or refresher course.

Sgt. Lee may be reached at his office in the City Hall at FU. 6-6181, or at home EV. 7-2972.

Increase Due In Filing Fees

A new ruling issued by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown is expected to result in an increase in filing fees for at least some candidates for township clerk's posts in the Nov. 5 general election, Frank R. O'Hanlon, County Election Board clerk, said today.

For years, it had been the policy both of the Election Board and the secretary of state's office that township clerks paid the minimum filing fee of $1, O'Hanlon explained. Filing fees are based on one half of one per cent of the annual salary the candidate seeks.

But Brown has instructed the board to determine if a township pays its clerk a salary in addition to fees fixed by statute. If so, the board is required to compute the fee and collect it from the candidates. Law fixes the maximum salary of a township trustee at $500, so the filing fee could not be more than $2.50, O'Hanlon said.

Letters explaining the new ruling have been sent to all township clerks and copies have been prepared for prospective candidates for the posts. But Brown's ruling does not affect the filing fee for township trustees, which remains $1, O'Hanlon explained.

O'Hanlon's letter says in part: "Heretofore, it has been ruled that the minimum filing fee of $1 should be collected from township clerk candidates, but the secretary of state today advised Boards of Elections should determine whether a salary in addition to fees is paid in any or all townships in Columbiana County. In calculating the filing fee, only the salary should be considered. The maximum salary is $500.

"Clerks also are entitled to a per centage of the township expenditures, but this is speculative and there is no way of knowing at the time of filing the candidate's petition what the expenditures and compensation may be. The minimum fee is $1, but if the clerk's salary exceeds $200 a year, the filing fee would be one half of one per cent of the amount paid."

Man Killed As Car Hits Bridge Culvert

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) —A 25-year-old Bowling Green plant workers was killed Friday night when his car crashed into a bridge culvert on Sand Ridge Rd., about five miles west of here.

The victim, William A. Rowland, an employe of the Green Manufacturing Co., was traveling alone. His car caught fire after the crash and the coroner said Rowland died of burns.

Fallout Due To Increase, Report Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Largely because of last year's Soviet nuclear tests there will be an increase in fallout this year. But the exposure to Americans is still too small to cause concern and a change in the national diet.

This report was made Friday by the Federal Radiation Council, a top-level government group that surveys available radiation data.

The fallout radiation an American will take in over 30 years is equivalent to one-thirtieth the amount he'll get from natural radiation in the soil, rocks and building materials, the report said.

There will probably be an increase in strontium 90 dosage to bone—an increase that will deliver to new bone formed this year radiation equal to one-fourth the natural background radiation.

But even that should drop in succeeding years as exposure to strontium 90 lessens, and there is a turnover in the normal growing processes of bone. Strontium 90 intake is believed to be a cause of bone cancer and leukemia—cancer of the blood.

The fallout figures, the council said, are "far short of figures which would cause concern," but spokesmen were hard put to say just what the figures of concern would be.

Scout Group To Meet

Plans for summer day camps will be discussed at a meeting of the Chester-Newell Girl Scout Neighborhood Association Monday night at 8 at the Westminster United Presbyterian Church.

How to Become a Millionaire

Many of America's richest men weren't born to wealth—as winners of the Horatio Alger Awards prove—but they do have certain traits in common

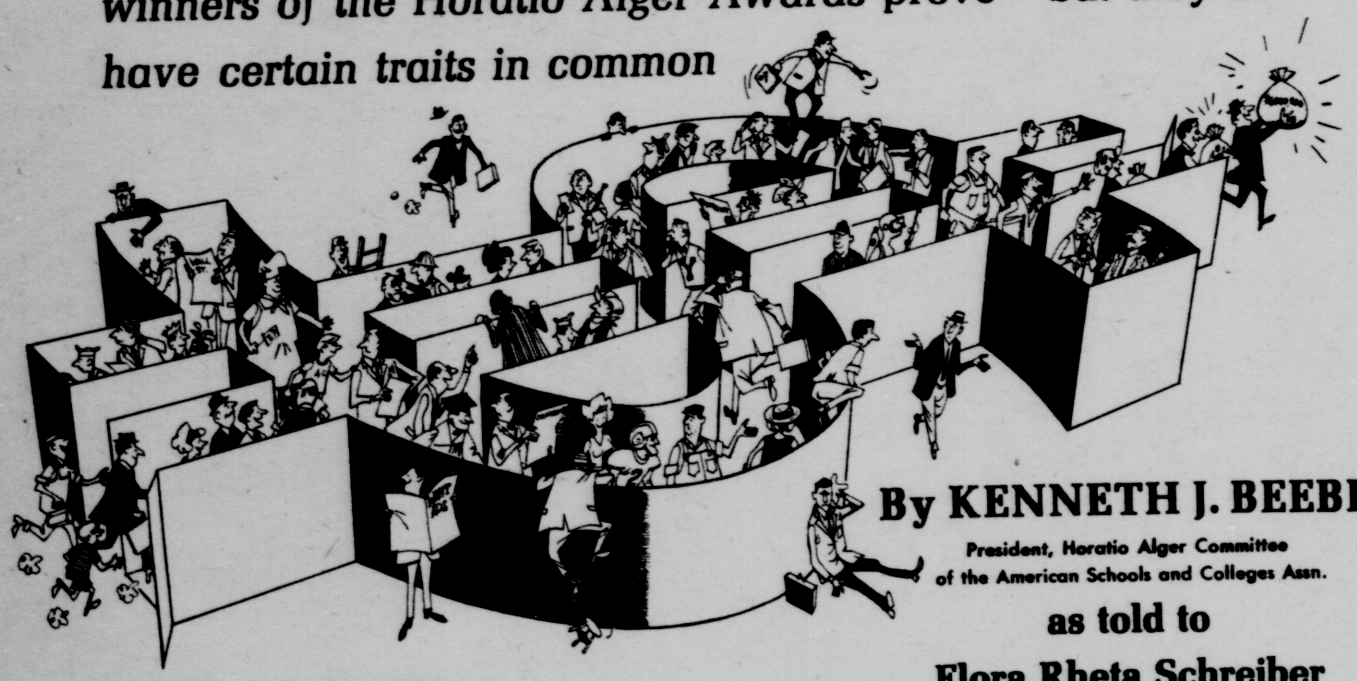

ILLUSTRATION BY BOB BUGG

By KENNETH J. BEEBE

President, Horatio Alger Committee of the American Schools and Colleges Assn.

Flora Rheta Schreiber

HORATIO ALGER was a drab, unhappy man. A poor boy, he failed in the ministry and then devoted his life to writing books that would show other boys how to succeed.

These books—Strive and Succeed, Try and Trust, Sink or Swim—inspired your fathers and grandfathers to achievement. Today Horatio Alger stands as a symbol of the American rags-to-riches dream—an old dream but still valid.

Each year I have had the great pleasure of handing out Horatio Alger awards to men who, as the embodiment of this American dream, have lived lives as if inspired by those old novels. They are selected by the Horatio Alger Awards Committee, supplemented by the votes of campus leaders at 500 colleges.

These award winners made fortunes because they possess the obvious virtues for success—a dynamic, outgoing personality, belief in people, a capacity for hard work, and a flair for salesmanship. In addition, they have four special traits that set them apart from more average men—traits which can help you develop a more successful life:

Self-Reliance—Movers and makers, the men whose lives personify the great American success story have pushed their companies into new methods and enterprises, always seeking better ways to serve people's needs. For instance, somebody once said of super-self-reliant Murray D. Lincoln, insurance-company executive and chairman of the board of CARE: "When he goes to Heaven, he'll take one look around, decide the place could stand some straightening out, and ask St. Peter for a broom."

Most people think family connections are indispensable to success, yet many of our winners were forced into self-reliance early in life. Some became the "man" of the family even before they were in their teens. But spurred by having to support their families (typically a widowed mother and a large brood of younger brothers and sisters), they achieved success earlier and more impressively than persons who are less urgently driven.

Take, for example, Albert Dorne, renowned advertising artist, illustrator, and educator who was born in the slums of New York's East Side.

After finishing seventh grade, he had to leave school to support his mother, two sisters, and a younger brother. At five, he had resolved to become a great artist, but family circumstances made him take a detour—newspaperboy, office boy, salesman. By the time he was 21, however, he had caught up with his original ambition and was already earning $20,000 a year in his chosen field. Today he is the most successful of all commercial artists and is reputed to have earned more money than anyone else in his field.

Moreover, altruism accompanied personal success. Spurred by the thought, "I studied art at home—so can you," he founded the Famous Artists' School and the Famous Writers' School in Westport, Conn. The schools have taught 54,000 students in 54 countries by correspondence.

Don't Make Money Your Only Motivation—None of our men wasted energy dreaming about gold for its own sake. As Joseph Sunnen, a multimillionaire St. Louis industrialist and one of our winners, puts it: "I just don't think anybody who wants only to make a million dollars can be happy. He has based his happiness on nothing. The only way to achieve both money and happiness is to make money a by-product of service."

Joe Sunnen has lived this philosophy to the letter. The son of a coal miner, he left school at 14 to work in a garage. His observations about faulty cars on this first job led to his later developing a valve lifter for automobiles. Today he holds patents on 50 inventions and heads his own company, Sunnen Products.

Sensing and Seizing the Opportunity—Our men didn't wait for opportunity to knock but did the knocking themselves. Take an 18-year-old farm boy, the 11th of 12 children, without a high-school education or business experience, who lost three jobs in his first two working years. Still determined, he started making brushes in the basement of his sister's home.

It was through this simple undertaking that Alfred C. Fuller became the original Fuller Brush Man, whose company today has more than 7,000 door-to-door dealers and annual sales of $100 million. He made his own opportunity in the face of total discouragement.

Learn from Your Failures—Too often, we surrender to failure and refuse to try again. Actually, failure can be a mirror which shows us how we erred, what part outside events played in it, and how we can avert future mistakes.

Taught to read and write by Annie Oakley and given his show-business ABCs by Buffalo Bill, award winner George A. Hammid, outstanding showman and authority on fairs and expositions, believes that: "Whatever success I have attained, I owe to my failures. A hungry showman learns more from one resounding failure than he does from two successes."

The experience of our Horatio Alger winners proves that in this country men without wealthy backgrounds or special privileges can succeed spectacularly. By their own efforts they pulled themselves up from obscure beginnings. They are a living testament to the fact that Americans can still transform their rags into custom-tailored suits and their pennies into dollars.

I can only tell you about them, however. If you want to join them, it's up to you.

SARAKA SOLVES THE PROBLEM OF "AFTER 45" IRREGULARITY

Doctor-approved bulk stimulant helps keep you comfortably on schedule as no ordinary laxative can!

As we grow older, our systems may often need outside aid to help maintain a normal regularity pattern. Continued use of strong drug laxatives can be irritating, even dangerous. That's why many doctors recommend SARAKA, the pure, all-vegetable bulk stimulant laxative for middle age and over. SARAKA supplies the moist, bland bulk that is so essential to healthy bowel function. And only SARAKA has a gentle stimulant action to help ease this bulk through your system plus Vitamin B_1.

Special note to weight watchers: Lack of sufficient bulk in 900 calorie liquids can lead to constipation. If this occurs, supplement your daily diet with all-vegetable SARAKA.

Kids write their

Compiled by Harold Dunn Illustrated by Syd Hoff

IN MOST STATES, you have to be 21 to vote for a Congressman. But there's no age limitation placed on who can write him—and nobody knows this better than America's kids.

They regularly take pen, pencil, or crayon in hand and express their thoughts in no uncertain terms to their Congressmen—or even to somebody else's.

Some of the letters are zany, some have the urgency of a telegram—and all of them are uninhibited. Here is a selection of such letters to Congressmen, in which the truth is expressed as only kids can do it.

Chairman
Legislative Branch
Washington, D.C.
Dear Chairman:

Why this business of having two senators for every state? One is plenty. Sure you would have to work a little harder, but we must all do our part to help in these times. You should say a speech about it and resign.

A Future Taxpayer

Senator Ernest Gruening
The Senate
Washington, D.C.
Dear Senator Gruening.

A question arose in my mind while I was hearing the news last night. I do not get paid for coming to school. May I see someone about my unemployment check?

Dennis S——

Mrs. Catherine May Congressional Building
Washington, D.C.
Dear Mrs. May:

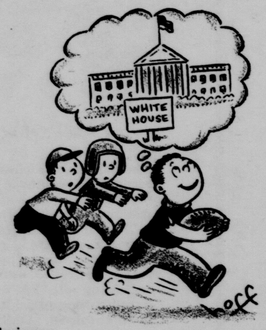
I am a Baptist and a Brownie. May I join the Republicans besides, or would this give me a conflecting interest?

Marie W——

Senator Harry Byrd
Senate Office
Washington, D.C.
Dear Senator Byrd:

This is to inform you that I am going to name my baby after you if I get married and he is a boy and he is my fourth one. You are fourth on my list.

Jane Y——



Chairman
Rules Committee
Congress
Dear Chairman:

Get me the official rules for football (touch) so I can practice to be President.

Thank you very much.

Lloyd L——

Senator Everett Dirkson
Senate Bldg.
Washington, D.C.
Dear Senator Dirkson:

All my friends are running for president, so I am choosing something else. Of all these people, who makes more: a governor or senator or house of representative, so when I run I will know. I plan on thinking of my family as well as my career.

Sincerely,
Hal K——

Congressman Thomas Pelly
Congress Building
Washington, D.C.
Dear Congressman Pelly,

Have you made up your opinion on China yet? Please send it to me and I would like to see it. I already have my opinion, so don't give any facts if you don't mind.

Thank you,
Gilbert S——

Congressman John Jarman
The Capital
Washington, D.C.
Dear Congressman Jarman,

I would like your autograph. Please mail it in a plain envelope as long as my folks are Democrats.

Randall B——

Congressman Craig Hosmer
U.S. Congress
Washington, D.C.
Dear Congressman Hosmer:

Write me something. Make it a person to person letter. I don't mind what you say if you will only do it in your own hand.

Sincer

Oh, write two letters while you think of it because I think I know where I can sell one.

Sincerely,
Charles H——

Senator Philip Hart
The U.S. Senate
Washington, D.C.
Dear Senator Hart:

Have a bubble gum. I became a brother this morning.

What Now for Dr. Sam Sheppard?

This famous convict seemed likely to win parole until a beautiful blonde fell in love with him; now people again ask: is he a victim of fate or his own emotions?

By PAUL HOLMES

Author of "The Sheppard Murder Case," member of the State Bar of Wisconsin, and crime reporter who covered the Sheppard trial and subsequent developments

AS A NEWSPAPER REPORTER who covered the famous murder trial of Dr. Samuel Sheppard in 1954, I went to Columbus, Ohio, earlier this year hoping to watch proceedings which would lead to the parole of this man convicted of killing his wife.

Over the years, as a newspaperman, crime writer, and lawyer, I have studied the case thoroughly, even written a book about it. I think that Dr. Sam was innocent of the crime.

As I traveled toward Columbus, it was my feeling that Dr. Sam's evil star, after nearly nine years of ascendancy, was finally on the way down. I hadn't taken into consideration love, headlines, and a beautiful blonde who I knew had entered Dr. Sam's life. I should have.

You will recall that the Sheppard murder case began July 4, 1954, when the pregnant wife of Dr. Sam, handsome, 29-year-old member of a prominent Cleveland medical family, was bludgeoned to death in her bed. Only Sam and their sleeping son, 7, were known to have been in the house when she was killed. Sam said he was awakened by his wife's screams and twice knocked unconscious by one or two intruders when he went to her aid.

The jury which heard his story—and it took him the best part of three courtroom days to tell it—disbelieved him and convicted him of second-degree murder.

Dr. Sam began serving a life term on July 20, 1955. Ohio law requires that he serve 10 years before he can ask parole, so last January his attorneys tried another approach. They sought to make him eligible for immediate parole through a commutation of his life sentence solely on the basis of his excellent institutional record. The attorneys presented this case:

Assigned to the prison hospital, Dr. Sam had earned his keep by working as an anesthetist, technician, and male nurse. On one occasion he had saved the life of an inmate patient who had stopped breathing after surgery. He had participated in a cancer-research experiment by baring his arm to implantation of live cancer cells.

Dr. Sam had been adjudged worthy of honor status in 1960 by prison authorities and early in 1961 had been transferred from the dank, pre-Civil War prison in Columbus to a modern, medium-security institution at Marion, Ohio. Here he had set up a course in hospital and nursing techniques and as an inmate teacher had given training which enabled several convicts to get jobs upon release from prison.

The job of the parole commission, when it convened Jan. 29, was to decide whether this record entitled Sam to a recommendation for gubernatorial clemency, advancing his parole eligibility by two years. And he might have made it except that fate suddenly intervened.

Ariane Tebbenjohanns—the woman who waits.

When his attorneys arrived at the hearing, they were accompanied by a glamorous woman with platinum-blonde hair and features of classic Nordic beauty. She was swathed in furs, bedecked liberally with jewels, and surrounded by an aura of Continental sophistication.

No one in the room had to ask her identity because the morning papers had been full of her sudden advent into the case. This was Ariane Tebbenjohanns of Düsseldorf, Germany, a well-to-do divorcee who had professedly fallen in love with Dr. Sam through correspondence and was in this country to fight for his liberation and marry him upon his release.

She would go to Washington, D.C., she said; she would make a personal appeal to President Kennedy and to his brother, the Attorney General; she would write articles about the case for German magazines, exposing American injustice.

Ariane Makes Matters Worse

This made exciting reading—but not for members of the parole commission, pondering their decision. They fumed with irritation; so did Ohio prison authorities. Even more exciting reading was provided later in the day by press cables from Düsseldorf with information that Ariane was indeed all she said she was—and more. She was a half-sister-in-law of the late Dr. Joseph Paul Goebbels, Hitler's propaganda minister.

This disclosure turned Ohio public opinion swiftly against Dr. Sam. As the public saw it, here was a man serving a life term for wife-murder after a trial which proved marital infidelity, if nothing else. Now he was involved with another woman. Knowledge that Ariane was a half-sister of the late Magda Goebbels clinched matters.

Retaliation against Sam was swift. On Jan. 30, the day following the commutation hearing, Ohio prison authorities revoked his privileges to receive visits and letters from the German woman. On Jan. 31, the parole commission unanimously voted to recommend that commutation be denied. The following day Gov. James A. Rhodes formally refused clemency.

But Ariane wasn't through. Stung by the ruling she could no longer write to Sam, she handed to a Columbus newspaper a love letter she had tried to send to Sam but which prison authorities had returned to her unopened. The newspaper published it on its front page.

To the prison administration, this was the last straw. On orders of Maury C. Koblentz, commissioner of corrections, Dr. Sam was awakened in the dead of night, manacled and chained, and unceremoniously hauled from Marion back to the prison at Columbus, his honor status gone.

Koblentz said the publicity was embarrassing the prison administration and that he had reason to suspect Ariane's effort to evade his edict against communication between her and the prisoner was carried out with Sam's possible connivance. Here was a plain hint that Sam's hither-

IN MOST STATES, you have to be 21 to vote for a Congressman. But there's no age limitation placed on who can write him—and nobody knows this better than America's kids.

They regularly take pen, pencil, or crayon in hand and express their thoughts in no uncertain terms to their Congressmen—or even to somebody else's.

Some of the letters are zany, some have the urgency of a telegram—and all of them are uninhibited. Here is a selection of such letters to Congressmen, in which the truth is expressed as only kids can do it.

The Saga of Billy Smith

When Billy Smith was only three,
He knew what he was going to be;
He knew, without his parents' urgin',
That he would someday be a surgeon;
To prove it, Billy marched upstairs
And cut the legs off several chairs.

When Billy Smith had grown to four,
He knew what fate had put in store,
He knew deep down inside his chest
He'd be a gunslinger out West;
He took his gun and with precision
Slung it through the television.

When Billy Smith accomplished five,
He knew what trade would make him thrive;
He knew one day in early summer
That he was meant to be a plumber;
He battered pipes down in the basement
'Til water lapped against the casement.

When Billy Smith was thus concerned
With how his income would be earned,
His parents, whose careers were set,
Gave up their work with small regret:
The day that Billy Smith was six,
His folks were full-time lunatics.

What Now for Dr. Sam Sheppard?

This famous convict seemed likely to win parole until a beautiful blonde fell in love with him; now people again ask: is he a victim of fate or his own emotions?

By PAUL HOLMES

Author of "The Sheppard Murder Case," member of the State Bar of Wisconsin, and crime reporter who covered the Sheppard trial and subsequent developments

AS A NEWSPAPER REPORTER who covered the famous murder trial of Dr. Samuel Sheppard in 1954, I went to Columbus, Ohio, earlier this year hoping to watch proceedings which would lead to the parole of this man convicted of killing his wife.

Over the years, as a newspaperman, crime writer, and lawyer, I have studied the case thoroughly, even written a book about it. I think that Dr. Sam was innocent of the crime.

As I traveled toward Columbus, it was my feeling that Dr. Sam's evil star, after nearly nine years of ascendancy, was finally on the way down. I hadn't taken into consideration love, headlines, and a beautiful blonde who I knew had entered Dr. Sam's life. I should have.

You will recall that the Sheppard murder case began July 4, 1954, when the pregnant wife of Dr. Sam, handsome, 29-year-old member of a prominent Cleveland medical family, was bludgeoned to death in her bed. Only Sam and their sleeping son, 7, were known to have been in the house when she was killed. Sam said he was awakened by his wife's screams and twice knocked unconscious by one or two intruders when he went to her aid.

The jury which heard his story—and it took him the best part of three courtroom days to tell it—disbelieved him and convicted him of second-degree murder.

Dr. Sam began serving a life term on July 20, 1955. Ohio law requires that he serve 10 years before he can ask parole, so last January his attorneys tried another approach. They sought to make him eligible for immediate parole through a commutation of his life sentence solely on the basis of his excellent institutional record. The attorneys presented this case:

Assigned to the prison hospital, Dr. Sam had earned his keep by working as an anesthetist, technician, and male nurse. On one occasion he had saved the life of an inmate patient who had stopped breathing after surgery. He had participated in a cancer-research experiment by baring his arm to implantation of live cancer cells.

Dr. Sam had been adjudged worthy of honor status in 1960 by prison authorities and early in 1961 had been transferred from the dank, pre-Civil War prison in Columbus to a modern, medium-security institution at Marion, Ohio. Here he had set up a course in hospital and nursing techniques and as an inmate teacher had given training which enabled several convicts to get jobs upon release from prison.

The job of the parole commission, when it convened Jan. 29, was to decide whether this record entitled Sam to a recommendation for gubernatorial clemency, advancing his parole eligibility by two years. And he might have made it except that fate suddenly intervened.

Ariane Tebbenjohanns—the woman who waits.

When his attorneys arrived at the hearing, they were accompanied by a glamorous woman with platinum-blonde hair and features of classic Nordic beauty. She was swathed in furs, bedecked liberally with jewels, and surrounded by an aura of Continental sophistication.

No one in the room had to ask her identity because the morning papers had been full of her sudden advent into the case. This was Ariane Tebbenjohanns of Düsseldorf, Germany, a well-to-do divorcee who had professedly fallen in love with Dr. Sam through correspondence and was in this country to fight for his liberation and marry him upon his release.

She would go to Washington, D.C., she said; she would make a personal appeal to President Kennedy and to his brother, the Attorney General; she would write articles about the case for German magazines, exposing American injustice.

Ariane Makes Matters Worse

This made exciting reading—but not for members of the parole commission, pondering their decision. They fumed with irritation; so did Ohio prison authorities. Even more exciting reading was provided later in the day by press cables from Düsseldorf with information that Ariane was indeed all she said she was—and more. She was a half-sister-in-law of the late Dr. Joseph Paul Goebbels, Hitler's propaganda minister.

This disclosure turned Ohio public opinion swiftly against Dr. Sam. As the public saw it, here was a man serving a life term for wife-murder after a trial which proved marital infidelity, if nothing else. Now he was involved with another woman. Knowledge that Ariane was a half-sister of the late Magda Goebbels clinched matters.

Retaliation against Sam was swift. On Jan. 30, the day following the commutation hearing, Ohio prison authorities revoked his privileges to receive visits and letters from the German woman. On Jan. 31, the parole commission unanimously voted to recommend that commutation be denied. The following day Gov. James A. Rhodes formally refused clemency.

But Ariane wasn't through. Stung by the ruling she could no longer write to Sam, she handed to a Columbus newspaper a love letter she had tried to send to Sam but which prison authorities had returned to her unopened. The newspaper published it on its front page.

To the prison administration, this was the last straw. On orders of Maury C. Koblentz, commissioner of corrections, Dr. Sam was awakened in the dead of night, manacled and chained, and unceremoniously hauled from Marion back to the prison at Columbus, his honor status gone.

Koblentz said the publicity was embarrassing the prison administration and that he had reason to suspect Ariane's effort to evade his edict against communication between her and the prisoner was carried out with Sam's possible connivance. Here was a plain hint that Sam's hitherto unblemished prison record might have a black mark when the parole commission was again scheduled to re-examine his case in 1965.

So Dr. Sam will remain in the Columbus prison indefinitely, Koblentz asserted, and will never, while there, be permitted to see or communicate with Ariane.

What is this woman like?

I met Ariane the night before the Columbus hearing. She convinced me that she sincerely believed herself to be in love with Sam, although simultaneously she appalled me with her plans to use the romance as a publicity vehicle for hastening his freedom. Here is the story of her romance, as she told it to me.

She began writing to Sam nearly four years ago. He was allowed to receive but not to answer her letters. Appreciative of these gay missives from Europe, Sam had asked his brother Stephen to acknowledge their receipt and to inform Ariane that he hoped she would keep writing. The correspondence thrived, with Stephen, anxious to do anything to make life more cheerful for Sam, acting as a go-between.

Late in 1962 Ariane asked prison authorities whether she would be permitted to visit Dr. Sam. The first answer she received was no. Last Jan. 8, however, Lamoyne Green, superintendent of the Marion Correctional Institution, wrote her in Düsseldorf as follows:

"Dear Madam: We have reconsidered your request to visit the above named (Sam Sheppard) and at his request have placed you on his visiting list as a friend. As of this date, we are granting you permission to visit him when you make your trip to Marion, Ohio. The visit will have to be between the hours of 8 a.m. and 3 p.m."

Sam Meets His Admirer

Ariane arrived alone at the Marion prison on Jan. 24, five days before the commutation hearing, and that day she had her first, and so far only, meeting with Sam. He was summoned from his prison tasks to a reception room where he was allowed four-and-one-half hours with his dazzlingly attractive visitor.

Small wonder that a romance nurtured for four years by mail burst into full bloom in these hours, at least on the part of Sam, who had scarcely seen a woman in nine years. Nor can it surprise anyone that Sam, at parting, threw his arms around her. Yet this fleeting embrace is on Sam's record as a breach of prison rules.

The timing of her meeting with Sam in relation to the commutation hearing makes it plain that the state of Ohio must bear some of the responsibility for what happened. The unfortunately timed betrothal could not have taken place when it did without the state's cooperation. If the state had sought to bait a trap in which Dr. Sam might imperil his chance of early freedom, it could scarcely have done a better job.

When Ariane's Nazi connection was exposed, she appeared genuinely puzzled that this could hurt Sam. After all, she said, she was never a Nazi, although as a child she had belonged to the Hitler Youth movement. Her half-sister, Magda, was 20 years her senior and had married Dr. Goebbels in 1930, the year that she was born. She never lived in the same house or city with Magda and barely knew her. Her parents, she said, were anti-Nazi, especially on the question of Nazi persecution of the Jews.

All true, conceivably. But by that time it made very little difference what Ariane said. When I last talked to her in April, she said she had hired a lawyer to figure out how she could marry Sam by proxy, and I know she has taken steps to assist financially in legal moves to free him.

Was Sam Really Guilty?

What does Sam think of all this? He is cut off from the world and can't say.

Those who believe Sam a murderer say his apparent susceptibility to Ariane's international courtship points up facets in his character consistent with the theory of his guilt. Those who believe him innocent think fate has once again stepped in to hurt him. So the basic question remains: is Sam Sheppard guilty of killing his wife? Let's look at the evidence.

Injuries, including a bruise to the spinal cord which caused loss of reflexes, were suffered by Sam on the murder night but were scoffed at by the state as trivial or self-inflicted. Disorder in the house was blamed by the state on a clumsy attempt by Sam to simulate burglary in support of his intruder story. The state sent scientific investigators into the house but seized the keys and locked the place against inspection by the defense. No weapon was ever found—Sam must have hidden it, the state said—and no motive was ever established.

The state gave the jury an excuse to guess at a motive, however, by proof that Sam had been an unfaithful husband in an affair with an attractive, unmarried hospital technician—an affair which had been carried on up to four months before the slaying of Mrs. Sheppard.

In final analysis, the state proved two things: that Sam was in the house at the time of the murder and that he had been a philanderer.

So flimsy was the murder evidence against Sam that the state waited 26 days to arrest him and acted then only after public pressure demanded that the "principal suspect"—Sam—be taken into custody. This pressure pictured Sam as a rich man trying to get away with murder by virtue of skilled lawyers and an influential family. Prejudice against Sam was so high at the trial—and I attended every session of it—that in my opinion a fair trial was impossible.

The jury needed five days to reach a verdict, an indication that compromise and guesswork played a part in the outcome.

The trial judge rejected as grounds for a new trial evidence which a noted criminologist hired by the defense found in the murder room as soon as the state surrendered the keys to Sam's house. This included an expert deduction that the slayer must have been left-handed (Sam is not) and that one spot of blood came neither from Sam nor his wife, hence must have been deposited by a third person—the murderer.

Two Judges Dissent

The Court of Appeals for the Eighth Ohio district and the Ohio Supreme Court later upheld the conviction, but two judges of the Ohio Supreme Court spoke out strongly for Sam in a minority opinion, branding the evidence as wholly circumstantial and insufficient to warrant conviction.

These judges said Sam had suffered prejudice at his trial by admission of hearsay evidence, by erroneous instructions to the jury on the weight of character evidence and the nature of circumtantial evidence, and by telephone calls which jurors were permitted to make to members of their families in violation of law while deliberating on a verdict.

What next for Dr. Sam? He is back where he was when his prison career began but worse off because avenues of legal redress then open to him have been sealed off one by one as various courts have ruled against his appeals.

But two legal moves aiming at Sam's vindication are still in the mill. One is an appeal to the United States Supreme Court to order Ohio prison authorities to permit Sam to undergo a lie-detector test, which Sam has demanded unsuccessfully. The other is an appeal to the Federal courts for a writ of habeas corpus on the theory he was denied due process of law at his trial. This habeas corpus proceeding was initiated in April and may require years of expensive litigation. Not many such actions are successful.

Thus Sam's chances at the moment are not bright, but not dead, either. Many people, including this writer, believe he does not and never did belong in prison.

Blondes, love, and publicity should not obscure this challenge to the public conscience.

A Leafy Hat By Garna Silke

On a lazy summer day, how about making yourself a hat of leaves? Maple leaves are best because they have long firm stems that can be used as pins. Other leaves which have broad surfaces and don't wilt too quickly will work out well, too.

Here's what you do for the hat. Gather a small heap of leaves. Pinch off the stems and make a chain of the leaves by overlapping them, tip behind tip, and using either a pinched-off stem or a toothpick to pin them together. Measure the strip to fit your forehead and join the ends together. Make another strip a few leaves shorter and close the top of this one. Pin the sides of the two strips together. Presto, a hat!

Girls might also like to make a garland or a stole of the leaves. The stole is easily made by joining the sides of two or three long strips and draping it over the shoulders.

A maple-leaf outfit makes an excellent costume for a play or a pretend game about a wood nymph or an elf.

Catch the Jumper By Bea Kiles

Two players stand opposite each other holding a jump rope slack. The others line up, Indian file, and run at the rope continuously, jumping over it each time they pass. At any moment the holders may raise the rope a foot or so. If they succeed in touching a jumper as he clears it, this runner then takes the place of one of the holders.

Delectable Pecan Bread

Serve this delicious bread cut in half-slices and sandwiched together with whipped butter.

½ lb. (about 2 cups) pecans
½ teaspoon baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs, beaten until thick and piled softly

1. Finely chop ½ cup of the pecans; grate the remaining nuts and mix together.

2. Blend the flour, baking powder, and salt together; mix with the nuts and set aside.

3. Cream the butter and extract together. Gradually add the sugar, creaming until fluffy after each addition.

4. Add the eggs in thirds, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add the dry ingredients in fourths, blending after each addition. Turn batter into two greased (bottoms only) 5½x3x2-in. loaf pans and spread to corners.

5. Bake at 325°F 55 to 60 min., or until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool on cooling rack 15 min. before removing from pans. Cool bread completely on cooling racks before slicing. To store, wrap tightly in moisture-vaporproof material. 2 loaves to unblemished prison record might have a black mark when the parole commission was again scheduled to re-examine his case in 1965.

So Dr. Sam will remain in the Columbus prison indefinitely, Koblentz asserted, and will never, while there, be permitted to see or communicate with Ariane.

What is this woman like?

I met Ariane the night before the Columbus hearing. She convinced me that she sincerely believed herself to be in love with Sam, although simultaneously she appalled me with her plans to use the romance as a publicity vehicle for hastening his freedom. Here is the story of her romance, as she told it to me.

She began writing to Sam nearly four years ago. He was allowed to receive but not to answer her letters. Appreciative of these gay missives from Europe, Sam had asked his brother Stephen to acknowledge their receipt and to inform Ariane that he hoped she would keep writing. The correspondence thrived, with Stephen, anxious to do anything to make life more cheerful for Sam, acting as a go-between.

Late in 1962 Ariane asked prison authorities whether she would be permitted to visit Dr. Sam. The first answer she received was no. Last Jan. 8, however, Lamoyne Green, superintendent of the Marion Correctional Institution, wrote her in Düsseldorf as follows:

"Dear Madam: We have reconsidered your request to visit the above named (Sam Sheppard) and at his request have placed you on his visiting list as a friend. As of this date, we are granting you permission to visit him when you make your trip to Marion, Ohio. The visit will have to be between the hours of 8 a.m. and 3 p.m."

Sam Meets His Admirer

Ariane arrived alone at the Marion prison on Jan. 24, five days before the commutation hearing, and that day she had her first, and so far only, meeting with Sam. He was summoned from his prison tasks to a reception room where he was allowed four-and-one-half hours with his dazzlingly attractive visitor.

Small wonder that a romance nurtured for four years by mail burst into full bloom in these hours, at least on the part of Sam, who had scarcely seen a woman in nine years. Nor can it surprise anyone that Sam, at parting, threw his arms around her. Yet this fleeting embrace is on Sam's record as a breach of prison rules.

The timing of her meeting with Sam in relation to the commutation hearing makes it plain that the state of Ohio must bear some of the responsibility for what happened. The unfortunately timed betrothal could not have taken place when it did without the state's cooperation. If the state had sought to bait a trap in which Dr. Sam might imperil his chance of early freedom, it could scarcely have done a better job.

When Ariane's Nazi connection was exposed, she appeared genuinely puzzled that this could hurt Sam. After all, she said, she was never a Nazi, although as a child she had belonged to the Hitler Youth movement. Her half-sister, Magda, was 20 years her senior and had married Dr. Goebbels in 1930, the year that she was born. She never lived in the same house or city with Magda and barely knew her. Her parents, she said, were anti-Nazi, especially on the question of Nazi persecution of the Jews.

All true, conceivably. But by that time it made very little difference what Ariane said. When I last talked to her in April, she said she had hired a lawyer to figure out how she could marry Sam by proxy, and I know she has taken steps to assist financially in legal moves to free him.

Was Sam Really Guilty?

What does Sam think of all this? He is cut off from the world and can't say.

Those who believe Sam a murderer say his apparent susceptibility to Ariane's international courtship points up facets in his character consistent with the theory of his guilt. Those who believe him innocent think fate has once again stepped in to hurt him. So the basic question remains: is Sam Sheppard guilty of killing his wife? Let's look at the evidence.

Injuries, including a bruise to the spinal cord which caused loss of reflexes, were suffered by Sam on the murder night but were scoffed at by the state as trivial or self-inflicted. Disorder in the house was blamed by the state on a clumsy attempt by Sam to simulate burglary in support of his intruder story. The state sent scientific investigators into the house but seized the keys and locked the place against inspection by the defense. No weapon was ever found—Sam must have hidden it, the state said—and no motive was ever established.

The state gave the jury an excuse to guess at a motive, however, by proof that Sam had been an unfaithful husband in an affair with an attractive, unmarried hospital technician—an affair which had been carried on up to four months before the slaying of Mrs. Sheppard.

In final analysis, the state proved two things: that Sam was in the house at the time of the murder and that he had been a philanderer.

So flimsy was the murder evidence against Sam that the state waited 26 days to arrest him and acted then only after public pressure demanded that the "principal suspect"—Sam—be taken into custody. This pressure pictured Sam as a rich man trying to get away with murder by virtue of skilled lawyers and an influential family. Prejudice against Sam was so high at the trial—and I attended every session of it—that in my opinion a fair trial was impossible.

The jury needed five days to reach a verdict, an indication that compromise and guesswork played a part in the outcome.

The trial judge rejected as grounds for a new trial evidence which a noted criminologist hired by the defense found in the murder room as soon as the state surrendered the keys to Sam's house. This included an expert deduction that the slayer must have been left-handed (Sam is not) and that one spot of blood came neither from Sam nor his wife, hence must have been deposited by a third person—the murderer.

Two Judges Dissent

The Court of Appeals for the Eighth Ohio district and the Ohio Supreme Court later upheld the conviction, but two judges of the Ohio Supreme Court spoke out strongly for Sam in a minority opinion, branding the evidence as wholly circumstantial and insufficient to warrant conviction.

These judges said Sam had suffered prejudice at his trial by admission of hearsay evidence, by erroneous instructions to the jury on the weight of character evidence and the nature of circumtantial evidence, and by telephone calls which jurors were permitted to make to members of their families in violation of law while deliberating on a verdict.

What next for Dr. Sam? He is back where he was when his prison career began but worse off because avenues of legal redress then open to him have been sealed off one by one as various courts have ruled against his appeals.

But two legal moves aiming at Sam's vindication are still in the mill. One is an appeal to the United States Supreme Court to order Ohio prison authorities to permit Sam to undergo a lie-detector test, which Sam has demanded unsuccessfully. The other is an appeal to the Federal courts for a writ of habeas corpus on the theory he was denied due process of law at his trial. This habeas corpus proceeding was initiated in April and may require years of expensive litigation. Not many such actions are successful.

Thus Sam's chances at the moment are not bright, but not dead, either. Many people, including this writer, believe he does not and never did belong in prison.

Blondes, love, and publicity should not obscure this challenge to the public conscience.

A Leafy Hat By Garna Silke

On a lazy summer day, how about making yourself a hat of leaves? Maple leaves are best because they have long firm stems that can be used as pins. Other leaves which have broad surfaces and don't wilt too quickly will work out well, too.

Here's what you do for the hat. Gather a small heap of leaves. Pinch off the stems and make a chain of the leaves by overlapping them, tip behind tip, and using either a pinched-off stem or a toothpick to pin them together. Measure the strip to fit your forehead and join the ends together. Make another strip a few leaves shorter and close the top of this one. Pin the sides of the two strips together. Presto, a hat!

Girls might also like to make a garland or a stole of the leaves. The stole is easily made by joining the sides of two or three long strips and draping it over the shoulders.

A maple-leaf outfit makes an excellent costume for a play or a pretend game about a wood nymph or an elf.

Catch the Jumper By Bea Kiles

Two players stand opposite each other holding a jump rope slack. The others line up, Indian file, and run at the rope continuously, jumping over it each time they pass. At any moment the holders may raise the rope a foot or so. If they succeed in touching a jumper as he clears it, this runner then takes the place of one of the holders.

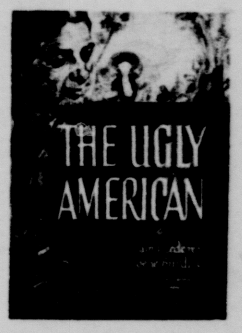
Why Can't the Movie Be More Like the Book?



A best-selling novelist learns the answer from some Hollywood experts —including an uncannily clever Marlon Brando

By EUGENE BURDICK

Coauthor of "The Ugly American" and "Fail-Safe"

NO ONE IS CERTAIN when Hollywood got the idea of making movies out of books. Whenever it was, it started one of the most persistent nonviolent wars of modern times.

Literary warriors as powerful as Hemingway and Faulkner have sallied forth to Hollywood armed with sound books and high enthusiasm—and emerged from the fray with shaking nerves and palsied hands.

Early in the movie negotiations for the sale of our book, The Ugly American, William Lederer and I were approached by a character who epitomized the classic idea of a Hollywood movie studio's front-office representative. He wore Italian silk suits, white-on-white shirts, and a Dunhill cigar in his mouth. He drank martinis of imported English gin. He swore vilely, but he called Lederer and me "darling." He looked like a hood from central casting. He was perfect.

He held a copy of The Ugly American in his hand. "I haven't read it," he said around the cigar. "Somebody else does that. But 'they' like it—a little." Then, sensing he had gone too far, he hefted the book again. "Now remember, lover boys, if we buy it, we got one rule: forget art, we're in the entertainment business."

We didn't sell to his front office, but I always liked his frankness. Not that we considered The Ugly American high art; we had written it in

The Real Secret of SUCCESSFUL MARRIAGE

Advice on how to be happily married was never so freely available as it is today.

Marriage problems are openly discussed in newspaper columns and on the radio. Marriage advice is available from the man next door, who speaks from experience . . . and from the psychologist, whose views come from study and research. There is no topic... from etiquette to fidelity... on which advice and counsel are not available.

Yet with all this marriage education, the modern divorce rate continues at an appalling high!

This condition obviously is not due to ignorance of the so-called "facts of life." It cannot be attributed to economic problems, for good times have been repeatedly marked by a high divorce rate. Nor can it be blamed on the excuse of personal "incompatibility," which so often appears in divorce petitions.

These and other practical problems undoubtedly contribute to marriage conflicts. But the basic, fundamental cause of marriage failures goes deeper. It is the failure of many people to realize the true meaning of marriage... to recognize that it is a life-long union of a man and a woman... to see that its main purpose is the begetting and rearing of children.

In Catholic eyes, marriage is, first of all, a contract which... as with all contracts . . . must be governed by justice. A purely sentimental and physical attraction between a man and a woman, which is not permeated by a sense of duty to each other and to God, is not the love upon which enduring homes are built.

But the Catholic Church teaches that marriage must be what God meant it to be... and He made it not only a contract—but a Sacrament.

When the marriage of a man and a woman is a Sacrament, they receive title to all the divine helps necessary to overcome the disappointments and difficulties of domestic life. They are thus better able to overcome personality differences . . . better able to deal justly with each other . . . better able to understand the many practical problems of living together.

Marriage is not a strictly private affair. It is the concern of the whole community. It is the special concern of the Church, which is charged with safeguarding this Sacrament. That is why the Catholic Church strives to impress the true nature of marriage upon all who hear its voice.

Whether you are already married... or just thinking about it ...you will be helped by a pamphlet we will send you explaining the true nature of marriage and the blessings that come from a proper understanding of the married state. Write for free copy. Nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet No. FM-19.

Family Weekly Cookbook • MELANIE DE PROFT, Food Editor

Angel-Lime Fluff

1 cup cold water
2 tablespoons (2 env.) unflavored gelatin
2 6-oz. cans frozen limeade concentrate, thawed
1 cup cold water
⅛ teaspoon green food coloring
1 1-lb., 4-oz. angel food cake, torn into pieces
2⅔ cups undiluted evaporated milk
2 teaspoons lemon juice

1. Soften gelatin in 1 cup cold water in a small saucepan. Set over low heat until dissolved, stirring constantly.

2. Combine the limeade concentrate, 1 cup cold water, and the food coloring in a bowl; stir in the gelatin. Chill until mixture is slightly thicker than the consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white. If chilled in refrigerator, stir occasionally; if chilled over ice and water, stir frequently.

3. Meanwhile, chill evaporated milk in a tray in freezer until ice crystals begin to form around edge.

4. When gelatin is of desired consistency, pour over the angel food cake pieces and beat together until smooth and well blended.

5. Beat icy evaporated milk and lemon juice together until very stiff. Fold into the lime mixture until thoroughly blended.

6. Turn enough of the mixture into a 10-in. tubed spring-form pan (removable bottom) to fill to within 1 in. of top.

7. Place a waxed paper collar* around inside top of pan and center tube so that each extends about 2 in. above rim. Pour remaining mixture into the pan and swirl the top (see photo). Chill until set, about 4 hrs.

8. Remove waxed paper collars; unmold and place on a serving plate. Garnish simply, as desired. About 12 servings

*Waxed paper collar—Cut length of waxed paper long enough to circle pan. Fold in fourths lengthwise. Bring ends together to form circle. Repeat for center tube.

Note: For easy removal of dessert from mold, fit a ring of heavy cardboard covered with moisture-vaporproof material onto bottom of the tubed spring-form pan.

Deviled Ham Soufflé Roll

GOOD FOR FREEZING

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
4 egg yolks
4 egg whites
Deviled Ham 'n' Mushroom Filling (see recipe)

1. Grease and flour a 15½x10½x1-in. jelly-roll pan. Set aside.

2. Heat butter or margarine in a saucepan; remove from heat and blend in flour and salt. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly until smooth. Continue to stir and bring rapidly to boiling; boil 1 to 2 min. Remove from heat.

3. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add sauce, a small amount at a time, to egg yolks, stirring vigorously after each addition. Set aside to cool.

4. Using a clean beater, beat egg whites until rounded peaks are formed (peaks turn over slightly when beater is slowly lifted upright).

5. Gently spread egg yolk mixture over the beaten egg whites. Carefully fold together until just blended.

6. Turn the soufflé mixture into the pan and spread evenly to corners.

7. Bake at 325°F 50 to 55 min., or until golden brown. Loosen edges of soufflé and invert onto a sheet of aluminum foil on a large cooling rack. Spread with Deviled Ham 'n' Mushroom Filling. Gently roll lengthwise, wrap in foil, and allow to stand about 10 min. to set.

8. To serve, remove roll from foil, place on a warm serving platter, and surround with water cress. About 12 servings

Note: Roll may be prepared in advance, cooled completely, then wrapped and frozen. If served cold, thaw completely. If served warm, set on a baking sheet, spread foil open, and heat in a 325°F oven for about 30 min. Transfer to a warm serving platter.

Deviled Ham 'n' Mushroom Filling

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 4-oz. cans mushroom stems and pieces, drained
2 4½-oz. cans deviled ham
½ cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup chopped chives or scallions

1. Heat butter or margarine in a skillet. Add the mushrooms and cook 5 min., or until mushrooms are lightly browned; stir occasionally.
2. Blend a mixture of the remaining ingredients into the mushrooms. 2 cups filling

Why Can't the Movie Be More Like the Book?

A best-selling novelist learns the answer from some Hollywood experts —including an uncannily clever Marlon Brando

By EUGENE BURDICK

Coauthor of "The Ugly American" and "Fail-Safe"

NO ONE IS CERTAIN when Hollywood got the idea of making movies out of books. Whenever it was, it started one of the most persistent nonviolent wars of modern times.

Literary warriors as powerful as Hemingway and Faulkner have sallied forth to Hollywood armed with sound books and high enthusiasm—and emerged from the fray with shaking nerves and palsied hands.

Early in the movie negotiations for the sale of our book, The Ugly American, William Lederer and I were approached by a character who epitomized the classic idea of a Hollywood movie studio's front-office representative. He wore Italian silk suits, white-on-white shirts, and a Dunhill cigar in his mouth. He drank martinis of imported English gin. He swore vilely, but he called Lederer and me "darling." He looked like a hood from central casting. He was perfect.

He held a copy of The Ugly American in his hand. "I haven't read it," he said around the cigar. "Somebody else does that. But 'they' like it—a little." Then, sensing he had gone too far, he hefted the book again. "Now remember, lover boys, if we buy it, we got one rule: forget art, we're in the entertainment business."

We didn't sell to his front office, but I always liked his frankness. Not that we considered The Ugly American high art; we had written it in

The Real Secret of SUCCESSFUL MARRIAGE

Advice on how to be happily married was never so freely available as it is today.

Marriage problems are openly discussed in newspaper columns and on the radio. Marriage advice is available from the man next door, who speaks from experience . . . and from the psychologist, whose views come from study and research. There is no topic . . . from etiquette to fidelity . . . on which advice and counsel are not available.

Yet with all this marriage education, the modern divorce rate continues at an appalling high!

This condition obviously is not due to ignorance of the so-called "facts of life." It cannot be attributed to economic problems, for good times have been repeatedly marked by a high divorce rate. Nor can it be blamed on the excuse of personal "incompatibility," which so often appears in divorce petitions.

These and other practical problems undoubtedly contribute to marriage conflicts. But the basic, fundamental cause of marriage failures goes deeper. It is the failure of many people to realize the true meaning of marriage . . . to recognize that it is a life-long union of a man and a woman . . . to see that its main purpose is the begetting and rearing of children.

In Catholic eyes, marriage is, first of all, a contract which . . . as with all contracts . . . must be governed by justice. A purely sentimental and physical attraction between a man and a woman, which is not permeated by a sense of duty to each other and to God, is not the love upon which enduring homes are built.

But the Catholic Church teaches that marriage must be what God meant it to be . . . and He made it not only a contract—but a Sacrament.

When the marriage of a man and a woman is a Sacrament, they receive title to all the divine helps necessary to overcome the disappointments and difficulties of domestic life. They are thus better able to overcome personality differences . . . better able to deal jusdy with each other . . . better able to understand the many practical problems of living together.

Marriage is not a strictly private affair. It is the concern of the whole community. It is the special concern of the Church, which is charged with safeguarding this Sacrament. That is why the Catholic Church strives to impress the true nature of marriage upon all who hear its voice.

Whether you are already married . . . or just thinking about it . . . you will be helped by a pamphlet we will send you explaining the true nature of marriage and the blessings that come from a proper understanding of the married state. Write for free copy. Nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet No. FM-19.

to play the lead in the picture and that he wanted me to come to Tahiti, where he was doing another movie at the time. I assumed it was to talk about the filming of The Ugly American. But in two weeks, we explicitly discussed the book for only five minutes.

Some sort of an eerie exchange was going on, however. At dinner we might start off by talking about a progressive school in England. Gradually we might slide into the differences between American and English character, and then things would get to a hard point: do English diplomats perform better than Americans?

The arguments often got heated, but they always were over by midnight. Despite stories I have read, Brando never drank after dinner and was almost morbidly sensitive to his "call" the next morning.

I USUALLY WALKED out into the mild Tahitian night with the sensation of being "had." Brando slides into one's mind, pulls out a bit of knowledge, clutches it, and runs. He does it with a gentle skill which must be inherited; no man could live long enough to learn it.

He struck me as a man picking up fragments with the hope of putting them into something recognizable. An example: once he asked me about latah, a curious hysterical state which is easily induced in Malays. As I finished, I looked up and he was latah: eyes glazed, mouth slightly open, breathing very rapid, movements jerky and mechanical. He winked, recomposed his face. It was only a rehearsal, but it was terrifyingly like the real thing.

Back on the mainland, I saw Englund and Stern at work. By now they had crept inside the characters whom Lederer and I had invented—characters I knew only as deeply as ink prints on paper. They argued ferociously and actually seemed to be living the characters.

Part of their work was pure, hilarious fantasy. Sarkhan, the country in which the book's action takes place, is wholly fiction. But they had invented a Sarkhanese dialect, designed a flag for the country, and drew up a map of Southeast Asia on which they had hacked out a place for their new nation. They even took sides in domestic Sarkhanese politics.

Occasionally I would comment. They didn't hear; they were off in a visionary world, living it completely. And they worked much harder than had Lederer and I.

THREE YEARS, seven months, and 15 days after we closed the deal, Lederer and I saw the movie in Hollywood. The screen came alive with a hot shimmering scene of Asia. For several moments, I sat with stomach muscles as tense as a washboard. Then for two hours and three minutes, I watched the film unfold. It has only the most passing resemblance to a novel called The Ugly American. Some names were the same, a few situations seemed familiar. But it was like trying to remember a dream. We had given the characters names; now they walked and talked, but they were strangers.

Five minutes later I had forgotten that the picture was partly mine and also that Brando was a friend. I remembered only the tiny snips and bits he had picked up—for now they came back at me from the screen.

I think the picture is better than the book; more integrated, more skillful, and more dramatic. It is a hard thing to acknowledge. It is even harder to concede that, in between the brilliant colors and the savage acting, the political impact is still there. It is slipped into speeches, implied by the ferocious lowing of a mob moving in to kill Brando. But it is there.

When the screening was over, we walked out into the empty alleys of the Universal lot. "When do we eat?" Lederer asked. Then, turning to Englund, he added: "A good flick. Where did you get the idea for it?" We all laughed. Not an easy laugh, but an understanding one.

Why Can't the Movie Be

haste and with some anger—and it showed. But we believed in the book's indictment of America's performance overseas. As a result, it has some impact, and we wanted that impact in the picture.

We finally sold the property (a book is never called a book in Hollywood) to Universal-International—largely because we were impressed with George Englund. He is a young, restless producer-director; a man more handsome than most actors and more interested in world affairs than most professors of international relations. He has traveled a good deal in Southeast Asia and knows little quirks of Buddhist religion, Malay personality, and Communist politics, which we thought would add authenticity to the book.

Englund also has a scalding sense of honesty. "As drama, this book is a mess," he said during the negotiations. I winced. "Too many characters, too many lectures, too many episodes. Don't," he said with a grin, "expect the movie to be like the book."

NEARLY four years later, I saw the "rough cut" of the movie. Englund had been right. But now I knew some of the reasons—I had learned a great deal.

I sat in on the first story conference between Englund and Stewart Stern, a tall, quiet script writer who has the reputation of never working on something in which he does not believe. They went through the book, cutting down characters with an odd mixture of piety, enthusiasm, and efficiency. It went on for hours.

When I came out of the conference, I was reeling slightly. I had learned a lesson: in a novel, you can write, "Jamie felt a white-hot flash of passion," but in a movie, you have to show it and in three dimensions. A novel, even a good one, can have characters who are as thin as the paper on which their names appear. The novelist can say something is so and order the reader to believe it. On the screen, you have to persuade your customer.

Somewhat later I learned that Marlon Brando was going to play the lead in the picture and that he wanted me to come to Tahiti, where he was doing another movie at the time. I assumed it was to talk about the filming of The Ugly American. But in two weeks, we explicitly discussed the book for only five minutes.
